CONVENTION WITH MEXICO APPROVED BY THE PRESIDENT

Secretary Hughes Also Favors Agreements Which Will Set Up Machinery for Adjusting Claims.

ERA OF PROSPERITY EXPECTED RESULT

Senates of Both Countries Must Ratify and Favorable Action by European Countries is Likely.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

A Special Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes have approved the findings of the American-Mexican commission who evolved a basis for the resumption of diplomatic relations at once between the United States and Mexico.

Just as soon as diplomatic relations have been renewed, there will be signed by the Governments at Washington and Mexico City two conventions covering general claims as well as claims growing out of the revolution. These pacts must be ratified by the Senate of each country. No difficulty is anticipated in obtaining their approval as they simply set up a machinery for the adjustment of claims which is eminently satisfactory to both Governments. All the troublesome oil and agrarian questions will be handled by properly constituted tribunals.

Mexico has in no sense compromised itself to obtain recognition and the United States on its part has become convinced of the sincerity and good faith of the Mexican authorities. Indeed, an era of friendship and good will now may be predicted. There was for a time during the conversations between the American and Mexican commissioners considerable difficulty arriving at a formula that would be satisfactory to both countries. For one thing, it was urged that Mexico sign a treaty giving pledges there in which would interpret the Constitution. But all concerned came to the conclusion that a treaty could not amend the Constitution of Mexico, anyhow, and that the acts complained of could just as well be acts of Congress in Mexico as a part of the Constitution and that the difficulties were not necessarily overcome by any treaty stipulation. Much more important than that was the setting up of machinery to deal with disputes on an equitable basis and in line with the pronounced policies of the Government.

Although the American Government has conducted its parleys without taking into its confidence the oil or agrarian interests involved, the impression prevails that when the details are made public they will set the merits of the new plan of procedure.

Intimacy Between Governments.

Most important of all the results achieved, however, is the intimacy established between the governments at Mexico City and at Washington. One of the commissioners, Charles B. Warren, is said to have won the confidence of the Mexicans to the point of becoming a friendly adviser of the conversations a friendly adviser of the Mexicans are believed to have come to the conclusion that the United States did not wish to impose burdensome terms but simply wanted a reciprocal and equitable basis for resuming diplomatic relations.

When the United States formally resumes diplomatic relations, all the other governments of the world are expected to follow suit. The action of the American government is always a precedent for European and Latin-American countries to follow. In fact, the American formula is very likely to be adopted by other governments to handle their claims against Mexico. There is nothing in the proposed conventions which gives the United States any preferential position with respect to other nations nor was anything discriminatory sought.

Re-Financing of Mexico Next.

The next step undoubtedly will be the re-financing of Mexico. Reports received here indicate that Mexico is in a potentially sound condition, that full 60 per cent more income is being collected by the Obregon Government than ever was collected by the Porfirio Diaz administration. Mexico is taking her resources in a way that she never has before and is in a position to win a loan on favorable terms. Certainly the moral support of the United States Government will not be withheld to any.

FRENCH REPLY TO CURZON NOTE IS GIVEN TO BRITISH Government Answer to Recent Document on the Reparations Issue Handed to Embassy in Paris.

BELGIUM REPORTED IN ACCORD WITH FRANCE

French Officials Have Hopes That Note Will Mark the End of the Note-Writing Struggle.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—The French Government's reply to the recent note of Marquis Curzon, the British foreign secretary, on the reparations issue, was handed to the British embassy at 9 a. m. today.

The feeling in French official circles is that this note, drafted by Premier Poincaré, will prevent a rupture of the Entente. Considerable confidence is expressed that the British Cabinet will find it satisfactory and see in it a basis for continued discussion of the Ruhr occupation and the reparations problem generally.

There is no concealment of the fact that the reply is largely controversial. That Premier Poincaré is unsatisfied on the outstanding features of the situation, and that it is not expected Prime Minister Baldwin will find the reply conclusive. It is considered almost certain that he will regard it as encouraging and will withhold any plans for separate action toward Germany.

There is said to be a tendency to look more favorably on a new reparations conference among the allies.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Belgium has studied the latest French note to England and is reported completely in accord with the French view. Government spokesmen make no secret of their hope that the note will mark the end of the note-writing struggle. The official attitude is that note writing only fortifies the spirit of controversy, and there seems to have been a gradual French change in the last few days away from uncompromising logic to a sincere desire to placate England.

Comments from the United States about the French debt are worrying this country. The Government does not believe the United States experts' immediate payment of the French debts, but France suddenly finds herself in the position of taking a moratorium without asking for one. It is possible a debt funding mission may be sent to Washington soon as a gesture of politeness. The mission would explain France's following the principle believed to be correct, payable to the United States, of coming to a European settlement first. If the United States suddenly were to demand payment as England has done, the French say it would be a desperate blow, for they have their hands full already.

Latest French Message Due by Courier to London Tonight.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—France's voluminous contribution to the long-dragged-out reparations controversy is expected in London by courier tonight. It will be translated at once and circulated among the British Cabinet members tomorrow. Prime Minister Baldwin is expected to call an informal meeting of the ministry just before his departure for the week, at which its contents will be considered.

The document is said to be long enough to fill 15 columns of an ordinary newspaper. Half of it is devoted to detailed replies to the 55 paragraphs of the last reparation broadside of Lord Curzon and half to an explanation of France's general policy regarding the Ruhr.

The full text of the note is expected to be published in Paris tomorrow, but it is probable that a brief summary of the document will be issued in advance tonight by the French Foreign Office.

If Premier Poincaré should disposition to yield on any of the points raised by Lord Curzon it is considered likely that Great Britain will beacons of Elmer A. Sperry are installed and tonight will revolve the circuit of the horizon every 20 seconds. At the fields also are large lamps flashing the landing runways, vanes illuminated to reveal the direction of the wind and incandescent lamps outlining the boundaries of the field, buildings, etc.

At Rock Falls, Des Moines, Grand Island and Sidney and 30 points of less size and importance are beacons whose rays keep the pilots lighted continually from one port to another. Further to guide the pilots on their way, at distances of every three miles, are flashing acetylene gas beacons, set on six-foot pillars, thus literally laying out a trail of light for practically 400 miles which will be covered by the flyers between sunset and sunrise.

At the repair and supply depot of the air mail service at Maywood, Ill., Capt. E. G. Richards has placed in commission standard De Havillands, powered with the Liberty motor, each capable of carrying from 500 to 700 pounds of mail, and each equipped with regulation night navigation lights to avoid collisions and in addition powerful wing-tip searchlights to enable the pilot to make a landing, even in a small field.

Pilots Page, Lewis, Garrison, Hopson, D. C. Smith, Yager, Moore, White, Allison and Knight—all veterans of years of experience in flying—have been selected as the flyers who are to take their ships over the various controls at night between Chicago and Cheyenne. All have flown the route and are confident that the service will go through as scheduled.

Few St. Louisans Send Air Mail on Cross-Continent Flight.

Few in St. Louis took advantage of the opportunity to send letters by the transcontinental air mail service today. The post office received several letters on which the senders specified air service, as is necessary to have them dispatched in that manner. Mail that is on hand early enough in the day is sent to Chicago, where it will be picked up by East or West bound mail planes. It is explained that there was a decided advantage in having air mail in the St. Louis postoffice early so that proper connections could be made with the planes in Chicago.

FLAGSHIP OF U. S. FLEET AGROUND IN PUGET SOUND

Cruiser Seattle, With Admiral Conant Aboard, Believed to Be in No Danger.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 21.—The cruiser Seattle, flagship of the United States fleet west of shore on Marston point, Puget Sound, in a dense fog early today, according to a radio message received here, the cruiser is not believed to be in any danger, and it is expected she will be floated at high tide today.

The naval tug Mahopao and Puget Sound were sent from the Puget Sound navy yard at Bremerton to the aid of the Seattle. The transport Chaumont, with a party of Congressmen aboard, was reported standing by the cruiser. On board the Seattle is Admiral E. E. Conant, new commander in chief of the United States fleet.

enterprise of the kind if the opinion of the Washington Government is sought by another country. It is somewhat early to forecast just what the financial steps will be, but the essential fact at the moment is that Mexico is on the way to rehabilitation and that instead of friction with the authorities below the Rio Grande, the United States begins an epoch of what appears likely to develop into unprecedented business expansion and prosperity.

President Harding would have been happy at the results obtained. He was eager to see Mexico and the United States resume diplomatic relations so that the entire family of nations might again be reunited. It appears probably that R. B. Creager of Texas, who was selected by Mr. Harding to be Ambassador to Mexico, will be sent to Mexico City shortly.

last March with an authorized capital stock of $100,000, she said, to manufacture cosmetics, particularly a facial cream. It was planned to float a stock issue of $25,000, she said to a Post-Dispatch reporter. On inquiry Miss Walsh said the stock had not been taken up by the State Finance Department.

Well furnished offices for the Walsh company were opened several weeks ago on the second floor of the building at 1419 Pine street. In the rear of the offices is a large room designed for the factory, equipped with tables, racks and shelves, and finished throughout in white enamel. No manufacturing was in progress there. Miss Walsh said work would not be started until arrival of machinery that had been ordered. She has been making the cosmetics herself, on a small scale, she said.

WHISKY HIDDEN IN STOLEN CAR

In searching a stolen automobile, which they had recovered yesterday, police of the Angelica street district found that the trunk floor boards were arranged on hinges. Under the boards was a compartment containing two five-gallon copper containers. One of the containers was full of whisky.

Edward Schultz, 25 years old, of 1539 North Ninth street, who had reported the theft of the car from his garage Sunday morning, was arrested because of his refusal to withdraw a suit against the Jenks School Board, which prevented the payment of teachers' salaries.

The information against Moore in the Bagby case was signed by the victim, who, it is understood, identified Moore as one of his abductors.

Negro Blacksmith Robbed of $450.

Jackson Brown, 67 years old, of 4016 Fairfax avenue, a negro blacksmith, reported to police yesterday evening that he had been held up by two armed negroes and made to walk into an alley on Sarah street near Page avenue at 3 p. m. and robbed of $450. Brown said he had drawn the money from the West St. Louis Trust Co. at noon.

FLOGGING GANGS OPERATE FOR PAY, OFFICIALS ASSERT

Macon (Ga.) Authorities Seek Identity of Men Alleged to Have Financed Whipping by 3 Brothers.

By the Associated Press.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 21.—Following the assertion by police and county officials that the three Hudson brothers, who were arrested Sunday night while flogging a negro being paid by an organization to do the floggings, officials today turned their efforts towards learning the identity of those alleged to have financed the Hudsons.

The three Hudsons were captured after a chase and are now in the county jail. A large seven-passenger touring car, found near the scene of the floggings, is said to have been used by them. In it were found several masks and other incriminating articles. One of the prisoners wore a mask when captured.

County officials last night would not divulge information which they were reported to have obtained during the examination of the Hudsons, but indicated they had learned enough to proceed on the theory that the Hudsons were a part of a gang that had been conducting wholesale whippings in Macon and that the gang was financed by an organization.

The Federal Government is working with the city and county authorities in an effort to apprehend the gangsters, who Saturday night held up a Government mail truck near the Terminal station, and attempted to remove the negro driver for the supposed purpose of whipping him.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 21.—The parity between anthracite operators and miners over a new wage contract designed to prevent a cessation of work in the hard coal fields Sept. 1, broke up today. Adjournment was taken subject to call of the secretary of the joint conference.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, declared this afternoon that unless out of employment on Sept. 1, he seemed generally agreed by representatives of both sides that only Government intervention could avert a tie-up of the mines.

Today's break came when the operators refused to grant the wage increase demanded by the miners. Notice of the break was sent to the United States Coal Commission at Washington. The commission had induced the parties to renew wage negotiations after a series of conferences in New York last week.

Reaffirm World Court Stand.

The delegation, which Mr. Coolidge was assured was representative of American business in a summary issued after the conference, said it had told him that the business element of the country "would welcome the opportunity for the United States, either officially or unofficially, to be helpful in the solution of European problems and with the least possible delay."

Reaffirming the chamber's endorsement of the Harding world court proposal, the delegation said it had expressed "gratification" over the measures taken by the Government toward that end.

In reference to railroad transportation, Mr. Coolidge's callers said they favored "private ownership and private operation, under fair and just regulation, based upon recognition of the obligations of the public toward railroads." The Chamber of Commerce, the President was informed, is making a comprehensive study of the transportation problem from the view of presenting recommendations to Congress and the executive branch of the Government.

Oppose Bonus.

Calling attention to the Chamber's opposition to the Government emergency in commercial business, the delegation contended that further action should be made to evolve a plan of operation by citizens before entering upon direct Government operation of Government-owned ships.

"Tax reform advocated by the delegation included resolutions for the repealing of the remaining war surplus tax, adjustment of income surtaxes, establishment of a court of appeals, and decentralization of the administration of Federal income taxes," it was stated.

Mr. Coolidge was reminded of the Chamber's opposition to a soldier's bonus and advocacy of a more flexible immigration law and a tariff adjustment board.

The delegation of business men that called on the President was headed by Julius H. Barnes, president of the chamber, and included A. C. Bedford, vice president of the chamber and chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey; John H. Pahey, banker; and publisher; Lewis E. Pierson of the Merchants' Association of New York; Willis H. Booth of the New York Trust Co. of New York; Fred L. Kent of the Bankers' Trust Co. of New York; Charles F. Ward of the First National Bank of Boston, and Elliot H. Goodwin, vice president of the chamber.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—When Bernard Ruhe's daughter, Elsie, was married to Carl F. Strohm, at New York, N. J., Sunday, he wanted to give them a more substantial wedding present than parlor furniture or cut glass, so he decided on a baby elephant.

"The animal, in addition to being a pet, also can be regarded as a good investment, for it can always be sold for more than it cost," he said today, as he bade them farewell as they sailed on their honeymoon trip to Europe. "It will be years before the elephant grows up, and as the animals live for several hundred years, it will be in the family for four or five generations."

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Charges were filed last night against one alleged member of the party that applied the lash to Leonard Bagby, near Broken Arrow, the night of July 14, 1922.

Marshall Moore, a special Deputy Sheriff, was charged with participation in the Bagby whipping, making the second such offense with which Moore has been connected since military authorities of the State have been investigating mob violence in this vicinity.

Moore was formally charged last Saturday with implication in the flogging of J. S. Lawhorn, a merchant at Jenks, June 4, 1922. Lawhorn was said to have been taken out and subjected to a severe beating because of his refusal to withdraw a suit against the Jenks School Board, which prevented the payment of teachers' salaries.

COOLIDGE IS TOLD BUSINESS MEN WANT EUROPE HELPED

They Would Welcome Chance for U. S. to Be Helpful With Least Possible Delay, National C. of C. Delegation Says.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Views of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States on various international and domestic questions were placed before President Coolidge yesterday by a delegation headed by Julius H. Barnes, president of the organization.

Discussion at the conference touched on the reparations problem, the World Court and such issues as transportation, the merchant marine, taxation, immigration, soldiers' bonus and the tariff, the delegation taking occasion to reaffirm the chamber's position on each question.

SEEKS BANKRUPTCY DECREE

Divorced Wife of Robert D. Sangster Files Voluntary Petition.

Mrs. Neill H. Sangster, divorced wife of Robert D. Sangster, industrial commissioner of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, listing her liabilities at $2034.89 and her assets at $695. She obtained a divorce Aug. 15, 1922, with custody of three children and $175 a month alimony. Sangster filed application Feb. 10 last to prevent enforcement of the divorce, alleging his wife had not proved residence of one year in the State.

Among her debts Mrs. Sangster lists $26 she owes the Union Avenue Christian Church for dues. She also lists a bill of $300 due the law firm that represented her, numerous bills for medical care and household needs.

Foresters Abandon Life Insurance.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 21.—Foresters of America, in nineteenth annual convention here, yesterday voted unanimously to retire from the field of life insurance. No new life insurance policies have been written for several years, activities of the organization being devoted to health insurance and payment of $200 funeral expenses.

2 KILLED, 47 HURT, AS BURNING DANCE HALL COLLAPSES

Many Firemen and Spectators Buried When 50 Feet of Wall of Brooklyn (N. Y.) Building Crashes In.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Two firemen were killed and 47 persons, mostly firemen, were seriously injured when a three-story brick dance hall and store building in Brooklyn collapsed last night during a fire, burying a score of firemen and spectators.

Four alarms of fire called companies from Manhattan and Brooklyn when the stubborn blaze broke out shortly after midnight. With the collapse, a fifth alarm was rung in and emergency calls brought a relief corps of surgeons and nurses. The sound of the collapse was heard for blocks around and thousands poured from the congested neighborhood tenements to add to the confusion.

Without warning, a 50-foot section of wall crashed in. A heavy steel girder, recently installed as an additional roof support, fell with the crumbling wall and carried its burden with it. The wall crushed most of the firemen on the ground floor under tons of debris. Those on the fire escapes were carried with the wall into the burning pit. Six of the men on the roof were catapulted into the heart of the building. The seventh clung to a wooden beam which he had straddled; in the fall it carried him into space, clear of the wreckage. He was rescued, only slightly hurt.

The fifth alarm brought additional firemen and rescue workers; telephone calls summoned police reserves. The firemen tore at the hot bricks to get to their comrades.

Glow of Flames Aids Rescuers.

News of the tragedy spread rapidly, and within a few minutes, vehicles of all kinds, wagons, limousines, commercial cars and taxicabs crowded about the scene. The police lined up the taxicabs for possible emergency use. Thirty ambulances from nearby hospitals were summoned.

The rescuers worked at first under the glare of the flames. They continued their task under the light of several arcs hastily installed by their comrades. The debris was hot and great clouds of smoke and steam arose as tons of water were poured on to cool the pile and facilitate rescues.

Fireman Killed by Bricks.

The first body removed was that of a fireman, killed by bricks. Then five injured were removed. From then on the victims were extricated one at a time. It was daylight before the walls and wreckage had been cleared from the street and the dead and injured removed.

The building was at 324 Grand street, Brooklyn, an old structure which formerly housed the Masonic Temple. The building was one of the older structures of the Williamsburg district.

FIRED FOR RIDING IN AUTO

Charwoman at Detroit Municipal Courts Held Not Necessarily Enough.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 21.—Because she came to work in an automobile one of the charwomen at the Municipal Courts Building has been discharged. Joseph A. Martin, commissioner of public works and custodian of public buildings, informed the common council here last night. Martin told the council it was the policy of his department to give cleaning work to needy women.

RUM PIRATES SHOOT SKIPPER

Nova Scotia Vessel's Distress Signals Seen by Fishermen.

By the Associated Press.

GLoucester, Mass., Aug. 21.—In a fight with rum pirates on board his schooner, the J. S. Scott Hankenson, out of Nova Scotia, Capt. Arthur Moore of Weymouth, N. S., was shot and probably fatally injured yesterday. Harry Harm, cook of the vessel, suffered several bullet wounds. Both were brought to a hospital here by fishermen who sighted the schooner's distress signals after the shooting.

ONE COPY OF HISTORIC RECORD

Proceedings of 1818 Illinois Constitutional Convention Nearly Lost.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 21.—The record of the State Constitutional Convention of 1818 has come within one volume of being lost, and plans are being made by Miss Margaret Norton, curator of the State archives in the Illinois State Library, to see that no other such documents suffer a like fate.

The original journals of that historic meeting are supposed to have been destroyed in a fire in the Statehouse at Vandalia, then State capital, in 1837. At any rate, the only copy of the proceedings is in the Illinois Historical Library. To make a duplicate, Secretary of State Louis L. Emerson has ordered a photostat machine in the Department of State, and every page of the volume will be photographed for the official file of the records of Illinois. The new photographic process will be used permanently by the State hereafter when cases arise involving the title to lands or documents which in the past have been copied painfully by hand.

"KANTON KNIT" DRESSES

Introducing a New Weave in Lovely Silk Frocks of the Latest Fall Fashions

$20

THESE Frocks are particularly practical for business wear or afternoon parties, as "Kanton Knit" is a new silk material that combines the decorative qualities of silk with the sturdiness of cotton weaves. In mesh it resembles jersey, but it is very firmly woven.

In this selling there are seven new styles, all of which continue long slender lines assisted by panels, drapes or aprons. The blouses on all are simple and loose. Some models combine moire "Kanton Knit" with the plain weave, creating a very chic model.

These are Frocks of advance styles and excellent quality, priced exceedingly moderate early in the season. Two of the styles are illustrated opposite.

Sizes 34 to 48. All are wonderful values.

MOTHER AND 3 CHILDREN UNITED AFTER 23 YEARS

Latter See Sister for First Time
Since She Was Baby in Labelle, Mo.

By the Associated Press.
RENO, Nev., Aug. 21.—A mother is united with her children in Reno today after a separation of 23 years, during the last 15 of which neither children nor parent have heard from one another.

In 1900, Mrs. Edwin Longfield left Labelle, Mo., for her sister's home in another town, taking a six months old baby and leaving three other young children with their father. While she was gone the father moved West with the three children left in his care, and later Mrs. Longfield divorced him, marrying Samuel Davis.

Fifteen years ago, the three children lost her address and she lost theirs, letters being returned by the dead letter office. Last December, the children here heard from a cousin in Missouri and, inquiring through him, at last learned that their mother was in Sedalia, Mo.

Mrs. Samuel Davis with the six months old child of 1900, who is now Mrs. Irene Phillips of Sedalia, reached Reno by automobile Sunday and met her other children, Mrs. William Hughes, Mrs. C. A. Menke and Alonzo Longfield.

THIRTEEN W. C. T. U. MEMBERS DEMOLISH 84 CASES OF BEER

Springfield (Ill.) Crowd Watches Women Smash Bottles Against "No Parking" Sign.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 21.—While hundreds of spectators looked on, 13 members of the local Women's Christian Temperance Union destroyed 84 cases of confiscated beer in front of the Springfield police station yesterday afternoon.

The upstairs windows of the city prison, where imprisoned bootleggers have been incarcerated after recent raids, were lined with wistful faces. The chief of police brought the women an iron "no parking" sign. They stood off at a suitable distance and shied the bottles at the stand, cheering as the bottles crashed.

During the last few weeks the amount of illicit liquor at the local police station has increased enormously because of various successful raids and the confiscation of private stocks.

The women went to Mayor Samuel L. Bullard and asked him to destroy the liquor as soon as possible "lest it fall into wrong hands." The Mayor, who was elected on a "reform ticket," reluctantly offered them the privilege of conducting the destruction themselves. They accepted.

After the ceremonial was over the police brought out their brooms and swept up the debris.

WEST HAMMOND, ILL., POSSE KILLS FORMER POLICEMAN

Armed With Revolver and Rifle He Had Threatened to Slay Police Chief.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—John G. Kosmala, former police officer of West Hammond who ran amuck in that city yesterday, was shot and killed after being surrounded by posses of Hammond and West Hammond police and citizens on the prairie near the Indiana State line.

Kosmala, a short time before, had walked into the West Hammond police station and city court, forced three officers and a police magistrate to throw up their hands and face the wall, disarmed and assaulted one officer, seized a rifle and left, saying he was going to kill every police and public official he met.

When shot through the heart by a policeman, Kosmala was taken to the hospital, where he died.

Kosmala had resigned from the West Hammond force about six weeks ago. He was said to have been drinking before going to the police station where he first demanded to see Chief Nitz.

PUBLISHER KILLED BY AIRPLANE

Aviation Sergeant Also Meets Death When Craft Falls 125 Feet.

By the Associated Press.
PORT BRAGG, N. C., Aug. 21.—Alfred Demesequita, 23 years old, president of the Fayetteville Publishing Co., publishers of the Durham Sun and the Fayetteville Observer, and Sergeant Edward A. Rees, 24, of the 22nd Aero Squadron, were instantly killed at Pope Field here yesterday afternoon, when the plane in which they were flying, went into a nose dive and fell from an elevation of about 125 feet. The wrecked plane burst into flames, it is said, and both victims were burned beyond recognition.

Both men were from New York.

ENGLISH SMUGGLING REVIVES

Kent and Sussex Coasts Again Visited With Illicit Merchandise.

By the Associated Press.
DEAL, Aug. 21.—Smuggling is being revived along the lonely stretches of Kent and Sussex coasts, according to seafaring men.

Many years ago and nearby ports were headquarters of cross-channel smugglers in brandy, lace and silks, and now the possibilities of big profits through depreciated French exchange and a reduction in strength of the coastguards, has tempted many to take up this exciting work again.

ICE FUND MINSTRELS
WELL LOADED WITH FUN
Big Brothers Benefit Program
Arranged With Emphasis On Humor.

In preparing for the performance at the Orpheum Theater next Saturday, the Big Brothers' Minstrels have given thorough consideration to proper treatment of the funnybone.
T. H. Gillespie, treasurer of the organization, has arranged minstrel jokes and cross-fire comedy guaranteed to dispel all symptoms of the blues the moment the end men are introduced. Gillespie and Robert Ecoff will present their recent invention, the Messophone. This apparatus is far reaching and more modern than the radio by several hundred years.

Gillespie as "Virgil Custard";
Robert Ecoff as "Edgar Moseley";
Robert Ries as "Squatty Rutt"; and Arthur Moline as "Plannel Mouth Arthur" will be end men. The interlocutor will be John C. Ecoff.

Acknowledgement is made of the donation of 50 hats by the Langenberg Hat Co. for use by minstrel paraders. The Lewis-Zuski Millinery
Co. has provided the red ribbon for trimming the hats. The Carleton D.
G. Co. is furnishing red satin for coat trimmings, black gloves for the minstrel paraders and black satin for ties. M. J. Clarke, costumier, 807
N. Broadway, is overseeing preparation of the costume, and his manager and an assistant will help in making up the prominent citizens who will parade in minstrel garb. The St. Louis Towel Supply
Co. is furnishing towel service at the Orpheum Theater.

A reduced price on 50 coats was made by the Angelica Jacket Company and the Erech Company donated $50 toward the purchase price of these coats. Canes for the minstrels are being provided by the Fa-brius Mercantile Co.

Manager Hets of the Hotel Statler is sending to Cincinnati for a duplicate ball of a thousand mirrors to be used in the Statler roof garden reproduction on the Orpheum stage.

Among the organizations purchasing blocks of tickets for the entertainment are: St. Louis National Bank, Headlight Overall Company,
Almet Manufacturing Co., and Robbins-Myer Electric Co.

Tickets at regular Orpheum prices will be on sale until Friday evening at the Baldwin Piano Company, 1111 Olive street, and may be obtained at the Orpheum Theater box office the day of the performance.

TWO HOLDUPS FRUSTRATED
Highwaymen Arrested on the Spot
at Granite City.

Two highway robberies in Granite
City yesterday were frustrated. Miss
Mamie Bordel, 18 years old, of East
Madison, walking home from work at 4:30 p. m., was seized and choked by a man who was loitering at Fourteenth street and Madison avenue.
He took her purse, containing $15, and ran. Two men who were nearby, pursued him for several blocks, caught him and turned him over to a policeman. The prisoner said he was a former soldier and added that he didn't know why he had committed the offense.

A negro youth held up Samuel Hindman and George Schrofer of Granite City near the Wabash depot at 9:40 p. m., threatening them with a club. He took a watch from Hindman, but returned it, saying it was not valuable enough. Papers that he took from Schrofer were found in his pocket afterward. A motor cycle policeman saw the affair and arrested the negro on the spot.

Three Persons Hurt by Autos.
Charlotte Jordon, 6 years old, of 1848A Geyer avenue, suffered cuts and bruises at 7:30 p. m. yesterday when struck by an automobile in front of 2112 Geyer avenue. Mrs.
Margaret Horstner, 26, of Overland,
St. Louis County, suffered a sprained back and lacerations at 2 p. m.
when an automobile ran into her at Locust and Seventh streets. Frank Northrup, 41, of 3622 Polson avenue, was slightly injured at 6 p. m.
when struck by an automobile at Grand boulevard and Polson avenue.

FIRE STATION SIGNALS URGED

Safety Council Also Favors Retention of Traffic Policemen.

Combination light and gong warning signals to be installed on either side of fire engine houses to warn pedestrians and a system of four lighted signs at dangerous street crossings were among the recommendations made by the Safety Council yesterday in letters to the city officials in charge of public safety.

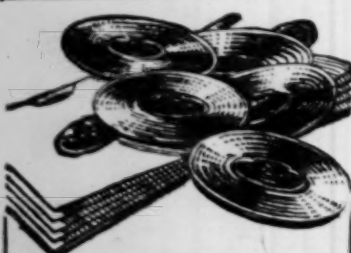

The Safety Council further declared itself in favor of continuing the present traffic policemen stations at intersections where street cars cross or turn, rather than to install automatic signals at such points.

CLEAN OUT YOUR BILE TUBES WITH CALOTABS

The Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets That Are Free From Nausea and Danger.

You have always thought of Calomel as the best and surest medicine in the world, but too nauseating for you to take. That was the old-style Calomel. Now science has robbed Calomel of its nausea and danger, without detracting in the slightest from its liver-cleansing and system-purifying effects. The next time you are bilious or constipated ask for Calotabs. Sold only in trade-marked packages. Price ten cents and thirty-five cents. One tablet at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no griping, no nausea, no danger. You wake up in the morning feeling fine, your liver active, your system purified, and with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Your money back at any drug store if you are not perfectly delighted with Calotabs.

SEIBEL PAYS $4167 TO HIS SUCCESSOR

Former Clerk of St. Louis County Court Turns Over Money Received From State.

The sum of $4167.20 in currency, paid by William Seibel, former clerk of the County Court of St. Louis County to his successor in office, Clerk Tiffin, will be held by Tiffin until a forthcoming report of the State Auditor, setting forth the amount which Seibel owes the county, is received.

As was told last Friday, the County Court employed the National Tax and Audit Co. of St. Louis to audit Seibel's accounts with the county. The auditing firm's report showed that an amount exceeding $4000 was paid last May by the State for the State's share of the cost of making up the 1932 tax assessment books. It also showed that the money had not been paid to Clerk Tiffin of the County Court, who succeeded Seibel in office last January.

Seibel at once, in a statement to reporters, acknowledged responsibility for the amount. He said that, as it was paid to him after he went out of office, and as two audits of his accounts were then in progress, he decided to hold the money until the exact amount of his indebtedness to the county should be shown. The County Court at that time voted to ask Seibel to appear, yesterday morning, and explain the matter. Seibel did not appear before the court at the time set, but in the afternoon his lawyer, Richard Ralph, called on Clerk Tiffin and made the cash payment. With it was a memorandum, saying that the payment was made as evidence of good faith, and asking Tiffin to hold the money until the State auditor's report is received. Then, if Seibel is shown to owe a less amount, a refund will be asked for. The payment was made on the basis of the private audit made for the County Court. Of the sum paid, $4089.62 represented principal, and $77.57 was interest at 6 per cent since May 9.

AUTOPSY SHOWS "BLUE MAN" WAS BLUE INTERNALLY, TOO

Capt. Fred Walters, Coney Island Side Show Freak, Succumbs to Heart Disease.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Capt. Fred Walters, 68 years old, internationally known as the "blue man" of many side shows, died yesterday in Bellevue Hospital of heart disease. An autopsy disclosed that his brain, heart, all other organs and tissues were as blue throughout as his skin. Dr. Douglas Symmers, director of laboratories at Bellevue, who performed the autopsy, discovered, he said, that Walters' body turned blue as a result of argyria, nitrate of silver poisoning. About 40 years ago Walters worked in an Australian mine. Dr. Symmers believes he inhaled the poison then. He considers it one of the most remarkable cases on record.

Walters has always attributed his color to the opening of a heart-valve which permitted pure and impure blood to mingle in his veins. Years ago he was a member of the Seventeenth Regiment, British Army. During maneuvers, while with his regiment in India, his horse fell on him. Not very long afterwards his chest began to get blue and soon the color spread to his face.

After a thorough examination Prof. Virchow, in Berlin, said that when Walters' horse fell on him the shock opened a small heart valve. Walters came to the United States in 1897, and after much persuasion, consented to be placed on exhibition as the "Blue Man."

Until 14 days before his death Walters was on exhibition in the Dreamland Circus side show at Coney Island.

ATTACK ON AMOY BY FOE OF SUN YAT SEN EXPECTED

Order to Evacuate City Ignored by Sun's Ally Who Begins Storing Ammunition.

By the Associated Press.
AMOI, China, Aug. 21.—Chang Tse-Ping, an ally of Sun Yat Sen in the defense of the southern provinces against the invasion of Peking troops, has refused to evacuate Amoy in compliance with the 48-hour ultimatum served on him yesterday by General Ong, whose army is menacing the city at a distance of eight miles. Chang, instead, is storing in ammunition.

If Ong carries out his threat, he will begin some time tomorrow attacking Amoy by land and bombarding it from the sea.

NEARLY 1,000,000 AUTO OWNERS

Illinois Likely to Reach That Number This Year.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 21.—There will be 1,000,000 automobile owners in Illinois before the end of the year, Walter W. Miller, chief clerk of the automobile division of the Illinois Department of State, predicts. At the close of business on Aug. 16, the number of licenses issued by the department already had exceeded 900,000.

A corresponding increase is noticeable in the number of chauffeurs' licenses issued. In 1922, there were 75,000, but Miller believes the number will reach 100,000 in 1932.

RIVIERA FOREST STILL BURNING

Four Bodies Found, Damage Estimated at $2,000,000.

Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Publisher Co., New York World and Post-Dispatch.
PARIS, Aug. 21.—Forest fires on the Riviera continue and it is feared many persons have perished. Already four bodies have been found and the damage is estimated at $2,000,000. Along 25 miles of the Esterel Woods, what yesterday was a fairyland, has been reduced to a desert. Hundreds of villas, country cottages and bungalows have been damaged by the flames. At many points along the coast the blaze has refused at Frejus.

At night most of the villages are in darkness, as the electric wires have been destroyed, although miles of flaming torches light the whole region with a lurid glow overlaid by a pall of smoke. The entire forest of Maures is in ashes and several districts road communications have been cut.

Conductor's Skull Fractured.
James Dodd, 23 years old, of 1219 Missouri avenue, conductor on a Market street car, suffered a compound fracture of the skull at 3:55 p. m. yesterday when his head struck a concrete trolley pole between the tracks on Oakland avenue near Louisville avenue. He was taken to St. John's Hospital. Police reported Dodd struck his head out a rear window of the car.

PART TWO.

ST. LOUIS FLYER ENTERED BY ARMY

AERIAL DERBY
Maj. Robertson One of 45 Pilots Chosen to Take Part in International Races Here in October.

ONE OF TWO RESERVE OFFICERS SELECTED

Noted Aviators on List Include Capt. Smith, Who Refueled Plane From Another During Flight.

Names of the Army Air Service officers and their alternates, who have been selected to participate in the international air races to be held in St. Louis Oct. 1, 2 and 3, have been announced by the War Department.

The list comprises 45 of the best aviators in the Army and two pilots of the Reserve Corps, one a St. Louisan, Maj. William M. Robertson, of 5423 Westwester, president of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, and commander of the service units of the Thirty-fifth Division of the National Guard, alternate to Lieut. D. M. Outcall, Reserve Corps, Cincinnati. Maj. Robertson will be the first St. Louis representative in international air-plan races.

None of the pilots who took part in the international races at Detroit last year will race here, as it is the policy of the Army Air Service to give different men each year an opportunity to show what they can do.

Some of the aviators entered.

Many of the men selected for the St. Louis races already have notable achievements of one kind or another to their credit. One of them, Capt. Lowell H. Smith, of Rockwell Field, San Diego, Cal., attempted a four-day nonstop flight over Rockwell Field and replenished his fuel by taking gasoline from a plane flying above him. The fuel replenishment in midair was accomplished, but the long flight failed because of engine trouble.

Another noted flyer entered is Lieut. Paul A. Wagner, Kelly Field, Texas, who piloted the plane from which Sgt. Encl Chambers broke through the sound barrier by dropping in a parachute from a height of 22,000 feet at Fort Sill, Okla.

Lieut. Leigh Wade of McCook Field, Dayton, who will pilot a Martin bomber in the air races here, is a noted altitude flyer. Lieut. Alexander Pearson, who will represent McCook Field in the classic of the west, the Pulitzer Trophy speed race, flew across the continent and back in 48 hours, 37 minutes and 16 seconds, actual flying time, finishing first in that race, which was held by the Army Air Service in 1919.

Pulitzer Trophy Entries.

Those entered by the Army in the Pulitzer Trophy Race are: Lieut. J. K. Kannon, Kelly Field, alternate for Pearson.

Lieut. J. Corliffe, Brooks Field, with Lieut. H. H. Mille, Fairfield, alternate.

Lieut. W. Miller, Crissy Field, with Lieut. L. V. Beau Jr. of Bolling Field, as alternate.

The Navy Air Service has entered the following pilots in the Pulitzer Trophy Race: Lieut. A. W. Callaway, Ensign A. J. Williams, and Lieut. J. B. Brown, all of the Navy, and Lieut. L. H. Sanderson of the Marine Corps.

Maj. Roy R. Brown of Maxwell Field, heads the list of alternate entries, with Maj. C. L. Tinker of Fort Riley as alternate. Others on the list are: Lieut. E. M. Powers, San Antonio; Lieut. W. H. Blackley, Aberdeen, Md.; alternate, Lieut. W. A. Maxwell, Crissy Field; Lieut. D. M. Outcall, reserve corps, Cincinnati; alternate, Maj. Robertson, reserve corps, St. Louis; Lieut. H. K. Ramey, Bolling Field; alternate, Lieut. H. W. Beaton, Bolling Field; Lieut. W. T. Larson, Kelly Field; alternate, Lieut. P. A. Wagner, Kelly Field; Lieut. H. J. Moley, Nashville; alternate, Lieut. A. S. Albright, office of the Chief of the Air Service; Lieut. W. H. Brookley, McCook Field; alternate, Lieut. C. McMillen, Brooks Field; Capt. H. H. Tinker, Chief of Air Service; alternate, H. N. Hansen, Langley Field; Lieut. L. N. Smith, Rockwell; alternate, E. B. Bonden, Chanute; Lieut. S. M. Connel, Mitchell Field; alternate, Lieut. V. E. Bertrand, Mitchell Field.

Those designated to fly the larger machines, including Martin bombers, include: Capt. E. C. Black, Langley; Lieut. L. Wade, McCook; Lieut. H. D. Smith, Langley, as their alternate; Lieut. L. P. Arnold, Bolling; and Lieut. H. L. George, Aberdeen, with Maj. J. H. Pierre, Aberdeen, as alternate; and Lieut. H. G. Crocker, Kelly, and M. S. Fairchild, McCook, with Lieut. G. H. Beverley, Kelly, as alternate.

No National Guardsmen Entered.

The service type pursuit planes in the Mitchell trophy race will be piloted by officers from Selfridge Field. They are Lieut. W. B. Blackburn, with Lieut. C. M. Clark, Hurd, as alternate; Lieut. Thomas K. Mattheis, with Lieut. Robert R.

GOV. BRYAN OF NEBRASKA WOULD BREAK COAL PRICE

Declares State Is Prepared to Enter Retail Market at Once Unless Lower Price Level Is Reached in Short Time.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 21.—In announcing that he had almost completed arrangements for supplying coal to cities, villages and local public companies, to be sold below prevailing prices, Gov. Bryan yesterday stated that he thinks coal prices throughout the State are out of reason. He said that he is taking steps to furnish coal to any city or village or to committees acting on behalf of the people in each community, under an agreement that the fuel will be sold to household consumers including farmers.

"I am by no means satisfied with the fuel situation in this State," the Governor said. "For some time past, I have been investigating conditions in the coal market and I find that great quantities have been stored throughout the country. Another element is on foot among the coal operators to force a strike at the mines in order that they may have an excuse for keeping up the exorbitant prices and unloading the surplus at these prices."

"So convinced am I that coal is retailing several dollars a ton higher than it should, that I have started negotiations for a supply and it is my intention to offer coal to any municipality in Nebraska which will take action to protect its people against the coal monopoly," he said.

Referring to a printed announcement by City Commissioner Connel that an unexpected grade of Illinois lump coal could be sold by the municipal yard the coming season at $9.50, the same price as last winter, Gov. Bryan said: "I am prepared to supply the city government of Lincoln at present with the same coal that was furnished to municipal patrons last year, at $6.25 a ton, f. o. b. Lincoln."

"Consumers should, under no circumstances, be charged more than $2 advance over this price to cover cost of delivery and a reasonable margin to insure the city against loss from shrinkage in handling which would make the price $3.25 delivered."

"If any attempt is made to charge more than that price on to substitute a poorer and cheaper coal, I will ask that a committee of Lincoln citizens be appointed to represent the consumer, and I will deal direct with that committee in supplying fuel for sale to the people at a fair price."

"We should have a showdown immediately. This is no time for profiteering. Either someone at the City Hall is being imposed upon or the city officials are not doing their duty in protecting the people from extortion."

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Aug. 21.—Differences between the American executive administration and Filipino political leaders found an explosively sharp expression this afternoon when Manuel Quezon, who in the recent official upheaval resigned as President of the Philippine Senate, announced that he had called to the Secretary of War in Washington that E. Pliego Rodriguez, lately appointed Mayor of Manila by Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood, was a former convict from Philippine prison and had been convicted of two crimes—conspiracy to procure the abduction of a woman by a band of bandits and complicity in the murder of an American soldier.

The Herald, speaking editorially in an extra edition, demanded that the Governor General request Mayor Rodriguez to resign.

In his message to the Secretary of War, Quezon said that the crime of which Rodriguez was convicted and sentenced to one year in prison and fined one thousand pesos was that of procuring the abduction of a woman by a band of bandits. Rodriguez served his sentence from June, 1919, to June, 1921. He twice applied for pardon but it was twice denied, Quezon said.

The cable declared further that Rodriguez was convicted of being an accomplice in the murder of J. P. Wood, the 27th United States Infantry. Rodriguez was alleged to have led a detachment of American troops against a house in which he knew bandits were concealed. When the fight broke out, Rodriguez was alleged to have followed according to the cablegram. No mention was made of a penalty having been inflicted in this case.

Long Have Been Political Foes.

Rodriguez, formerly Governor of the Province of Rizal, became Mayor of Manila on July 28, succeeding Ramon Fernandez, who resigned just before the Cabinet and Congress of the State resigned. A body of Rodriguez and Quezon long have been political opponents.

Although there had been a gradual widening of the rift between Rodriguez and Quezon, the immediate cause of the resignations was the Governor General's action in reinstating a Secret Service official who had been dismissed for alleged bribery, but later was exonerated.

The Cabinet members, in resigning, charged the Governor General with seeking to intervene and control even in the smallest details of Government both insular and local, and under disregard of the authority and responsibility of the department heads and other officials concerned. There was no evidence as yet as to whether such charges.

"Surprised," Says Wood.

Late this afternoon Gen. Wood told the Associated Press he was much surprised by Quezon's disclosure of the alleged criminal record of Mayor Rodriguez.

"Neither I nor anyone else in this office," said the Governor-General, "has known anything of Rodriguez' unfavorable in Rodriguez' record until this information was brought to my attention."

He added that he would look into the matter thoroughly.

The records show that Rodriguez was 16 years old at the time of his conviction by a military court. It was during the Philippine insurrection. Since his release in 1921, he is said to have had an excellent record as an official in the United States Government service. In 1920, he was appointed Mayor of his town in Rizal Province.

The next year, he was elected to the same office, and in 1922 he was elected Governor of the province and re-elected in 1922. Governor-General Wood pointed out that Rodriguez had a good record as Governor of the province.

Wood said Rodriguez had been prominent in public life, enjoying the confidence of his people. While the old charges had been brought up during his first election campaign, they seemed to have been forgotten in the 1922 campaign, which was even more bitterly fought.

Wood contended that his former political advisers, including Quezon and Speaker Osmena of the House of Representatives, must have known of the early record of Rodriguez, yet never before revealed that the man had been in prison.

QUEZON CHARGES WOOD APPOINTED FORMER CONVICT

Governor-General Says He Knew Nothing About Any Criminal Record of City Official He Named.

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Aug. 21.—Differences between the American executive administration and Filipino political leaders found an explosively sharp expression this afternoon when Manuel Quezon, who in the recent official upheaval resigned as President of the Philippine Senate, announced that he had called to the Secretary of War in Washington that E. Pliego Rodriguez, lately appointed Mayor of Manila by Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood, was a former convict from

Philippine prison and had been convicted of two crimes—conspiracy to procure the abduction of a woman by a band of bandits and complicity in the murder of an American soldier.

The Herald, speaking editorially in an extra edition, demanded that the Governor General request Mayor Rodriguez to resign.

In his message to the Secretary of War, Quezon said that the crime of which Rodriguez was convicted and sentenced to one year in prison and fined one thousand pesos was that of procuring the abduction of a woman by a band of bandits. Rodriguez served his sentence from June, 1919, to June, 1921. He twice applied for pardon but it was twice denied, Quezon said.

The cable declared further that Rodriguez was convicted of being an accomplice in the murder of J. P. Wood, the 27th United States Infantry. Rodriguez was alleged to have led a detachment of American troops against a house in which he knew bandits were concealed. When the fight broke out, Rodriguez was alleged to have followed according to the cablegram. No mention was made of a penalty having been inflicted in this case.

Long Have Been Political Foes.

Rodriguez, formerly Governor of the Province of Rizal, became Mayor of Manila on July 28, succeeding Ramon Fernandez, who resigned just before the Cabinet and Congress of the State resigned. A body of Rodriguez and Quezon long have been political opponents.

Although there had been a gradual widening of the rift between Rodriguez and Quezon, the immediate cause of the resignations was the Governor General's action in reinstating a Secret Service official who had been dismissed for alleged bribery, but later was exonerated.

The Cabinet members, in resigning, charged the Governor General with seeking to intervene and control even in the smallest details of Government both insular and local, and under disregard of the authority and responsibility of the department heads and other officials concerned. There was no evidence as yet as to whether such charges.

"Surprised," Says Wood.

Late this afternoon Gen. Wood told the Associated Press he was much surprised by Quezon's disclosure of the alleged criminal record of Mayor Rodriguez.

"Neither I nor anyone else in this office," said the Governor-General, "has known anything of Rodriguez' unfavorable in Rodriguez' record until this information was brought to my attention."

He added that he would look into the matter thoroughly.

The records show that Rodriguez was 16 years old at the time of his conviction by a military court. It was during the Philippine insurrection. Since his release in 1921, he is said to have had an excellent record as an official in the United States Government service. In 1920, he was appointed Mayor of his town in Rizal Province.

The next year, he was elected to the same office, and in 1922 he was elected Governor of the province and re-elected in 1922. Governor-General Wood pointed out that Rodriguez had a good record as Governor of the province.

Wood said Rodriguez had been prominent in public life, enjoying the confidence of his people. While the old charges had been brought up during his first election campaign, they seemed to have been forgotten in the 1922 campaign, which was even more bitterly fought.

Wood contended that his former political advisers, including Quezon and Speaker Osmena of the House of Representatives, must have known of the early record of Rodriguez, yet never before revealed that the man had been in prison.

GROUNDWORK FOR REED-LONG TRUCE APPARENTLY LAID

Significance Attached to Withdrawal of S. W. Fordyce From Race for National Committee.

MOVE ANALYZED BY PARTY STRATEGIST

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Thousands of American farmers will go bankrupt with wheat selling at considerably less than cost of production, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace declared yesterday. While thousands of others will be able to hold on only by the most grinding economy. If the present plans of prices of commodities are maintained, he added, then, to have general prosperity, prices of farm products must be increased.

Eastern railroads could help by making substantial reductions in freight rates on agricultural products, especially if destined for export, Wallace asserted. He said, however, that until agriculture, industry and commerce were brought into a more normal relationship, "acute agricultural problems will develop, one after the other."

One More Acute Symptom.

"The ruinously low price of wheat is not a new agricultural disease," said the Secretary in a statement. "It is just one more acute symptom of the general trouble from which agriculture is suffering. The diseased itself is the distorted relationship between prices of farm products and prices of other commodities."

"The sooner the people engaged in commerce and industry frankly recognize the trouble, the better it will be for all of us. The farmer could get along fairly well with present prices of what he has to sell, if prices of what he must buy were down accordingly. But prices of other things remain high. That is what hurts."

"The pressing question is, what can be done to help the wheat grower get more nearly the cost of production for this year's crop?" Some urged that the Government ought to fix a fair price. That could be done only by the Government preparing to buy wheat at that price. Others suggested that the Government go into the market and buy 200,000,000 bushels of wheat and store it, on the theory that taking off the market of that quantity would send the price up to a fair figure.

Bad Enough.

"I am not opposed to good results from either of these plans. How would the Government dispose of the surplus accumulated? What effect would either action have on wheat acreage? What effect would it have on the acreage and price of other grains and of livestock? Would the same policy be adopted in case of unusually low prices for other farm products?"

"The wheat situation is bad enough in all conscience and certainly the majority of our people would favor any practical method of helping, but we ought to be reasonably sure that the remedy attempted will do the farmer more good than harm and will not make our situation worse instead of better."

The low price of wheat this year will bring some reduction in acreage, Wallace predicted, adding that "it is a terribly bad situation for the individual, but those who remain will be benefited."

WHEAT PRICE MEANS RUIN FOR THOUSANDS ON FARMS

SAYS SECRETARY WALLACE

Others Will Hold on Only by "Grinding Economy." He Asserts—"Not Hopeful" About Plans for Government Aid as Proposed.

WILLIAMS URGES THAT HOUSE FIX SENATE DISTRICTS

Webster Groves Member of Code Convention Proposes Plan Intended as Compromise Measure.

LITTLE PROGRESS ON REPUBLICAN PROJECT

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 21.—A proposal that a redistricting of the State as to the 34 present senatorial districts be left to the House of Representatives in the next General Assembly was urged in the Constitutional Convention yesterday by Former Circuit Judge George H. Williams of Webster Groves, a Republican.

The Williams plan is intended as a compromise between the views of radical Democrats and radical Republicans, in the hope that good feeling may be preserved in the convention, without, however, sacrificing all hope of some improvement over the present Democratic gerrymander, in effect since 1901, under which Democrats have controlled the Senate at all but one session of the Legislature.

Democrats in the hope of defeating all efforts to tamper with the present districts, want the entire matter passed on to the Legislature. Republicans, who have seen a season after season come and go without any real change in the Senate, are unwilling to let the present districts stand, without, however, sacrificing all hope of some improvement over the present Democratic gerrymander, in effect since 1901, under which Democrats have controlled the Senate at all but one session of the Legislature.

Unorganized, acting as individuals without any cohesive plan and with little attempt at united action, such as the behavior of the Democrats, who are trying to keep the attempt, the Republicans are slowly plowing along.

Their job was only half done in the last session, when they failed to elect one Democratic member of the committee, they were forced to go on the floor of the convention with a districting plan which had not had mature consideration.

Henry Lay of Warsaw, a Democrat, chairman of the committee, who had kept the committee from doing any favor during the previous months of the convention, was away when it was time to report, so Joseph W. Hunter of California, a Republican and ranking member of the committee, acted as chairman during the session.

Gunn-Wammack districting plan was reported out.

Whispered Conferences on Floor.

Thus it was that a "system" of district numbers, which will have to be revised in order not to throw hold-over Senators into districts which will elect new Senators next year, got into the plan. Under such conditions, he said, the "Government would not hold the sack" indefinitely.

The Congressman pointed out that farmers of the country were raising 61,000,000 acres of wheat where they raised 45,000,000 in 1916. The grain growers are still raising a good share of the total acreage of 75,000,000 which they were called upon to raise to feed the world during and immediately after the war, he declared.

getting votes and the device of trying to please everybody and on the return not pleasing anybody is a sufficient extent to carry elections except on a fluke.

"I am thoroughly satisfied that a constructive, conservative platform, an old-fashioned State rights, real Democratic platform, based on principles and conservative atmosphere would attract the voters to the common good and general welfare. We cannot have State rights on one or two amendments and not on the Eighteenth."

CHINA CALLED "PROBLEM"

Speaker Says World Must Be Patient With Orientals.

By the Associated Press.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 21.—China will remain a problem for the world for many years, it was declared yesterday by Dr. Sydney L. Gulick, who has just returned from the Orient after a year there, and who spoke at the conference on international relations from the Christian viewpoint. The conference is held under the auspices of the Commission of International Justice and Good Will of the Federal Council of Churches. Dr. Gulick is secretary of the commission.

"China is passing through its period of adolescence and will make unreasonable demands," he said. "The somewhat unreasonable West is likely to insist on quick results that will be unsatisfactory and will arouse resentment in China. We must seek to give China such a full measure of justice and even of positive helpfulness, that there shall be no danger of creating a militant China for carrying on a propaganda, among the army and the working classes."

The Trouble With the Police.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
YOUR editorial on the Wojcik-Boroski killing has struck the chord of my contention. The question at issue is whether citizens have no rights within their homes. If every home was entered simply because there were automobiles there and a little noise, the police would be kept busy doing nothing else but this. It appears to me from the fact that the soft drink bar under this man's house was raided twice in a week, and then his home entered without any just reason was nothing but persecution.

My attention has been called to the fact that all the officers' testimony was exact in detail. In my opinion this is more to their discredit. It is one of the police officers' moth-eaten practices to blacken a dead man's character, so as to create public sentiment in their favor. The public has been asked to be more friendly with police officers. This is impossible, because the majority of them are inconsiderate of a citizen's rights and are brutal in performing what they call their duty.

Some people point out if these officers are convicted that it will place an officer in doubt as to when he is in the right. But this is absurd, because every officer knows or should know how far his authority goes. A conviction in this case would make them read up on their authority and the rights of citizens. While I believe in strict enforcement of law, I do not believe an officer should be allowed to overstep his authority any more than a citizen is allowed to violate the laws. What the St. Louis police force needs is more common sense law enforcement and more respect for citizens' rights and less brutal and spectacular stuff.

Down With the Bureau.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
A GAIN, in the strike of waterworks laborers, the so-called Bureau of Municipal Research comes to the front against labor. We are reminded of the Bureau's efforts to deprive a part of another group of city employees of the means of livelihood and to compel those remaining to do the extra work for the same pay. Why not dissolve our city government and turn the city hall over to the hard-boiled Bureau of Municipal Research? The only times I remember reading about the B. M. R. are those times when it has come into the open to slap the working people in the face.

Some (not I) have fooled into the belief when the Bureau was formed that it was to promote the general welfare of our city. Yes, father, the Bureau of Municipal Research pretexts a more natural appearance toged out in its real clothes.

MARTIN A. DILLMON.

Were the Police Asleep?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
LAST Sunday in the direction of an amusement park there were intermittent salvoes of artillery fire all day until after 11:30 p. m. The heavy detonation kept people awake for a radius of more than a mile. And a night begun by tossing on a sleepless bed may mean hours of wakefulness after the noise has ceased.

But it is to be noticed that the Police Department was not awakened. This was hardly to be expected. After living here some years, having formerly lived in other cities, I should say that if there is any one thing more than another that distinguishes St. Louis it is that anyone disturbing the public peace can get away with murder before the police will take any original action in the enforcement of ordinances or protecting public rights.

I can't believe that what there are ordinances in St. Louis against the discharging of firearms in the city limits and against continuing a Fourth of July celebration throughout the year. Even for the most unenforced of us there is something revolting in making a pandemonium out of the week's one day of rest for the entertainment of children and juvenile-minded adults.

In Defense of Mail Truck Drivers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE letter by "Driver" in today's paper should not go unchallenged by an army of efficient mail truck drivers of our city. We are no more exempt from traffic regulations than any other driver; in fact, not so much, as we are held accountable to the Postmaster for all accidents where a careful investigation shows the mail truck driver at fault. Compare the number of mail trucks on the streets, the number of hours they are on the streets, and the number of miles covered by them every 24 hours of the year, with the number of accidents where mail trucks are involved, and you must realize our mail truck drivers are the most efficient drivers in our city. Our rigid instructions are that no schedule is so important as to justify violation of traffic regulations.

BUSINESS OR POLITICS, MR. COOLIDGE?

The arguments submitted by the delegation from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to the President in favor of American participation in helpful measures for the solution of Europe's problems are not new to the readers of the Post-Dispatch. They have been repeated in various forms in this newspaper since the war.

The delegation was composed of leading business men, representing great industrial and commercial interests. They spoke for business when they told him that the existing economic disorder in Europe seriously affects the United States and that it is an obstacle to permanent peace, which is the one thing needful for the restoration of normal, prosperous conditions throughout the world. The committee told Mr. Coolidge that the existing European situation is reflected in many of the domestic problems of the United States, especially through the falling off of export trade and the influencing of prices in this country for factory products that lack sufficient markets, and, therefore, the economy of large production required for both home and foreign trade.

From this effect of the European situation on the industry and commerce of the United States arise the increase of unemployment, the slackening of business generally and the depression of securities on account of uncertainty and the fear of disaster. The problem of the farmer, of course, is involved in the situation.

The voice of business expressed through this delegation is strong and clear for the participation of this country in the solution of Europe's problems and the maintenance of peace. The reasons submitted are convincing. President Coolidge can have no doubt with regard to the attitude of business and the effect of the European situation on economic conditions here.

Which will he choose—the interests of the people or the counsel of politicians moved by personal and partisan motives to block reasonable action on the part of the United States? The general agreement of American observers in Europe is that the situation is becoming more and more acute and may at any time lead to disastrous consequences which will make the problem immeasurably more difficult, so the President must not only decide what we shall do, but decide quickly.

The other questions discussed by the delegation, such as tax reform, transportation and the Federal reserve system, are important and should be carefully considered. They embrace the major domestic problems. But all are overshadowed by the big question which affects peace and international trade.

The International Court has the approval of the business men, but that is only one step. Something of more immediate effect in restoring financial stability and sound economic conditions is needed at the present time. The Ruhr, reparations, the allied indebtedness—questions which are producing dangerous friction and threatening not only economic disaster but war, should receive prompt attention.

The one thing the President and the Congress should do is to drop politics and act for the public welfare. That is the best politics that the Coolidge administration could play.

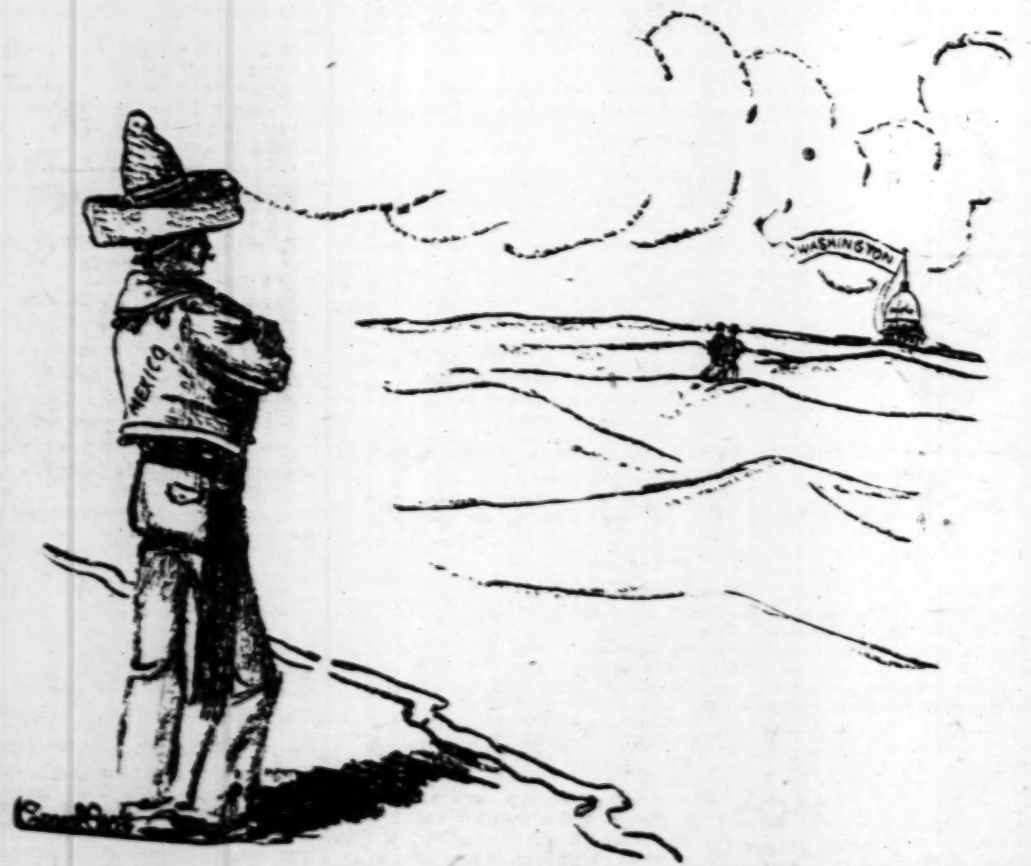

THE 30-CENT LIBEL.

E. T. Meredith's suit for libel in the sum of 30 cents against Senator Brookhart is as devastating in its imputation as it is light in its financial demand. While the damage of the Senator's statements might be more, says Mr. Meredith, "I estimate his effectiveness at about 30 cents." The waiving of anything but nominal money damages while the plaintiff will be put to considerable expense in conducting the suit makes the issue purely one of character. Mr. Meredith proposes to show up his traducer in a legal tribunal as one who speaks other than the truth.

If the plaintiff's denial of the defendant's charge is upheld by the court it will be generally agreed that the suit was justified. There ought to be a way to prevent the circulation of provable lies on the public platform and in the political arena.

WATCHFUL WAITING REVERSED.

(From The Louisville-Courier Journal.)

When a lie is told about a man he may take action in the courts. But when it is told about an institution or measure which deeply affects the lives and welfare of people the public interest is without a champion. Whereas a falsehood about a person may injure only that one person, a lie about an institution, such, for instance, as the League of Nations, may affect millions of lives and many nations.

If punishment could be assessed in more cases for the willful poisoning of the channels of public information there would be less poisoning and more sincere searching for fact and truth.

MOB LAW AND THE GOVERNMENT.

A Washington news service reports that President Coolidge is taking under consideration the Dyer antilynching bill for reintroduction in Congress as a measure necessary to the protection of the public from mob violence which already exists quite generally in some of the states.

It is true that conditions in Oklahoma and Texas, as reported, are deplorable. It is also true that the Governors of those commonwealths indicate a spirit quite adequate to cope with the situation. When the state governments have proved impotent to protect the lives and persons of citizens as guaranteed by the Constitution it will then be time to consider Federal measures which are repugnant to the fundamental principle of state sovereignty and local government.

It is pertinent in the discussion of this subject to speak a word of praise for those state executives who, in defiance of the politically powerful mob factions, are endeavoring to preserve order and protect the persons of citizens by calling out state troops. If so-called law-enforcing, but, in reality, law-breaking, organizations continue a course which makes for the dissolution of all local and even state government there can be no doubt that the ultimate recourse of law and order, from whatever source, will be invoked against them.

It all depends on the United States, says Poincaré, regarding the reparations problem. But hasn't he learned that we have a no-depend, no-responsibility, no-entanglement, no-action State Department?

CABOTS AND KABOTCHNIKS.

Beneath its cold exterior, the codfish aristocracy of Back Bay is raging over the court action which permitted one Kabotchnik to change his name to Cabot. They aver that Kabotchnik has done nothing to earn the name of Cabot, and the Order of Founders and Patriots of America announces that the case will be carried to the highest court.

What dreadful plishposh! What did the present Cabots do to earn the name? As a rule, a man acquires his name from his parents, without conscious effort on his part. We assume that the Boston Cabots came by it that way. In that case they do it less honor than Kabotchnik does, for he has honored it by his preference.

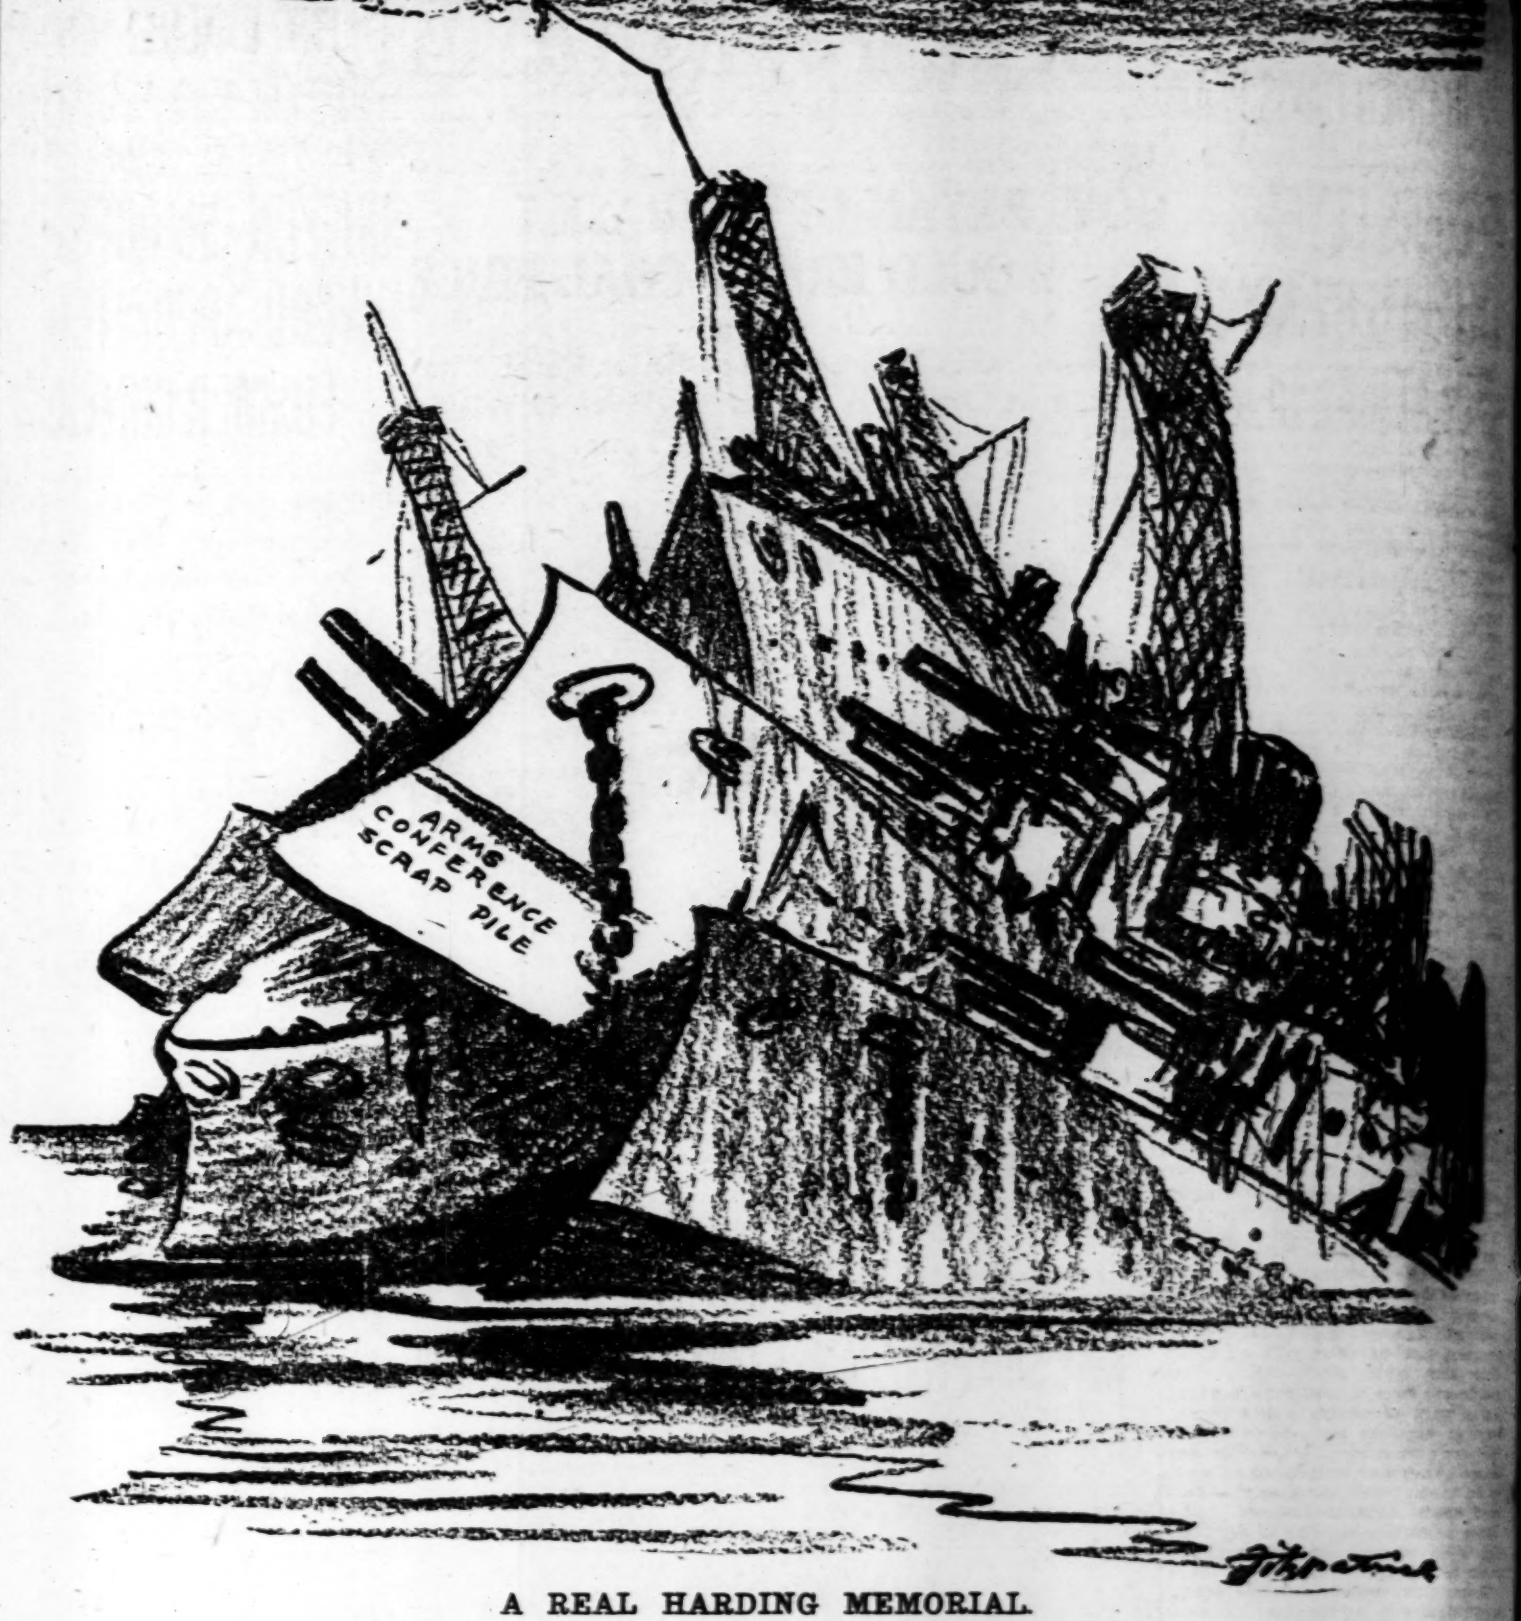

Of all the various forms of whangdoodle affected by mankind, pride in an exclusive name is the lowest. At best it is an empty worship of the past; at worst, a desire to profit undeservingly from the greatness of other men. By the way, who comprises the Order of Founders and Patriots of America? Unless we are mistaken, all the founders have been dead for some time, and we are sure that patriotism is not the exclusive virtue of an exclusive society. Back Bay should be informed that this country is a democracy.

A NEW TENNIS QUEEN.

American tennis has a new queen. After a reign of eight years Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory has been dethroned by Miss Willis, the 17-year-old California girl, whose victory was so decisive as to leave no question as to her superiority.

The result upset the predictions of many of the experts. Though Miss Willis, by the brilliancy of her performance last year, was hailed as the destined successor of Mrs. Mallory, the accession was not expected to occur this year, and one enthusiast voiced a doubt as to whether Miss Willis would ever wrest the title from the redoubtable Molla. But at Forest Hills Saturday the challenger, in addition to the agility and accuracy of her best form, developed a speed as blinding as the defender's. The combination was invincible.

For the vanquished Molla it should be said she was always a fighting champion. In the face of pending defeat her deportment has been a refreshing contrast to the defaults and hysteria of the temperamental Lengies. Miss Willis will, of course, maintain the traditions of good sportsmanship established by Mrs. Mallory. Mrs. Bundy and other American women title holders.

A PUEBLO DEER DANCE.

ELIZABETH SHEPLEY SERJEANT, writing in The New Republic, Aug. 22, disapproves of the efforts of the Department of the Interior to limit or stop the religious dances of the Pueblo Indians. To the Indian, every dance is a symbolical. He truly believes that weather, crops and other essentials depend on the observance of these rituals descended from the Stone Age. One such dance, the Deer Dance, is thus described by the New Republic writer:

"We steal out at daybreak when the pueblo is flat and washed with dawn-pallor, oriental, a thin pungent smoke rising from its pot chimneys toward the two mauve hills, which send up from time to time, another sort of emanation—an animal sound, keen as flame.

A steady, silent, human movement responds throughout the village. Tall little males wrapped in blankets, emerging from low portals; broad-shouldered women, climbing down ladders; grandfathers with babies on their backs; as water flows, so they slip in one direction. We are drawn along in the eddy, and take our place with the worshippers on the higher side of the ditch, where the pueblo governor stands guard. From one of the round kiosks, a chorus of voices approaches, but silently, solemnly, bearing its great tombs in its bright-colored center. It halts, takes its appointed place a few yards from us, just below the twin hills.

Their cone-like summits fix our attention. Thin, dark, in the direction of the sun, they zig-zag across them, and down into the connecting chasm; the hunters. Before them, driven this way and that, shapes that even at a distance seem informed with a wild, strange poetry. The quarry. The movement is exquisitely calculated; it makes on the marbled slopes an unforgettable pattern. Something black and white and antlered, half crouching, but superciliously at gaze, something red and monumental, holding heavy head aloft, something small and tawny and quick bounding and jumping—so one begins to discern and divine the animals, fatally driven, drawn into the net of man. And here, coming closer is she who holds the snare and weaves the spell, the Buffalo Maid, who by her magic has lured the beasts for the good of the Pueblo people. Inside her dark headpiece of curly buffalo pelt, with its sharp polished horns, her young eyes and cheeks shine with pride. She is the Bull Goddess of mythology, with the sunrise streaming in her face. But, after all, she is not the chief protagonist, not for her to the James peaks leap into flame. It is for the Deer, the cautious, the savage, the tenacious; the choral voices break at last into throaty chant.

From the Mountain Black.
From the Summit,
Down the trail, coming, coming now.
Comes the deer to my singing.

"He turns his listening head, with its miraculous, searching mack of black and white, he leans above the sticks that simulate front feet. He knows his doom, with poignant pathos. As he lifts his antlers, a mist of downy feathers, hanging from their points, trembles with his tremors. This is no mere deer of the forest, it is the Spiritus Sanctus of Deerdom, stylized and symbolized into Deer God, complete and perfect in his substance. Ten on he comes, tragically destined one, into the plaza, halting, wheeling, listening, and after him his three Deer Brothers, and after them the four majestic Buffalo, forming a square about these

Maid, and after them two noble Elk, and after them two joyous, active little Antelope. Quarry mine, blessed am I
In the luck of the chase.
Comes the deer to my singing.

Comes the deer to my singing.
Comes the deer to my song.
Comes the deer to my singing.

And so the ceremony begins, triumph and apology, prayer and sacrifice, repeating its intricate songs and rhythms and closely studied animal movements through the day, till at last the beasts are slain by the hunters at sunset, and the tribe of the Queres is again pronounced lord of the wild.

Its bonds of scordid clay
And leave the other a fondly nursed
When it was young and gay.

Love, we have been comrades and true
For many a dreary mile—
So be it, I shall pass 'fore you—
I shall return and smile.

Each day my Shade with you will keep
A sacred, holy tryst.
Each hour till you shall fall asleep
Your lips by mine be kissed.

And mine the hand to guide your feet
Thru the eternal plane.
Mine the voice that first shall greet
My lost love found again!
HENRY JUNE PATER

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

COOLIDGE AND HIS VIEWS.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.
MR. LOUIS LOUCHEUR'S statement that President Coolidge was in favor of canceling the debts has stirred Senator Reed Smoot to wrath. Senator Smoot, now in Paris, is quoted as saying: "I am very much surprised that Loucheur should make such a statement. He undoubtedly has been so informed, and does not have a clear comprehension of the status of the debts as even the commission handling the funding must submit proposals to Congress for action." Senator Smoot knows the law as it now stands and the limitations it imposes upon presidential initiative. Doubtless Mr. Loucheur does not. But whether Mr. Coolidge favors new and more liberal action in reference to war indebtedness or whether he is in favor of American intervention for the adjustment of the reparations tangle are matters on which neither the Senator nor the French seaman can be reliably informed. No one can expect the President but the President himself. He has any fixed and positive ideas on the subjects of war debts and reparations he will doubtless make them public in good time. Meanwhile, speculation on what he does or does not intend to do is futile. It is better to wait than to be wrong.

THE PHILIPPINES.

From the New Republic.
THE Philippines have taken one bad step toward making sure that some attention will be paid to their quarrel with Gen. Leonard Wood. The world has heard appeals for justice on the part of oppressed nationalities so often that it is tired to death of them. In every capital, the Philippines are filed without being read. The Philippines, however, have gone beyond the point of resolution. They have announced a boycott of American goods. They are even reverting to their native carts and sacrificing the American automobiles they have been in the habit of using. Here is a blow which really tells. When Gen. Wood began to resist the Japanese following the imposition of the Twenty-One Demands, the Japanese merely smiled. But when the Pan University students initiated a boycott of all Japanese goods and it ran through the promised like wildfire, Nippon was horribly upset. The Philippines will stick to it. They have adopted the most effective way possible of calling the attention of the world to their unhappiness to the attention of the big, sleepy giant, America.

CHIROPODISTS OR PODIATRISTS?

From the New York World.
OVER 1000 delegates from all parts of the country assembled in annual convention here divided on the issue whether they shall call themselves chiropodists or podiatrists. It is a delicate question. A recognized institution like a national association of specialists cannot change its name lightly, lest the public be misled into believing that it is torn by dissension or has fallen under the sway of revolutionary elements. As a matter of human progress, change for mere change's sake is likely to lead to unknown dangers. There are differences as to which of the two words, chiropodist or podiatrist, is the more pleasant sounding dignified. It will make little difference to the patient who applies for treatment so long as he gets relief. Both words are of two syllables. Both count four syllables. Both come from the Greek. Both are intended to mean the same. Then why wrangle over the degree of refinement that each expresses? What the world needs most is peace and good feeling. In a pinch, chiropodists and podiatrists do worse than compromise on the title of the doctor, a good old, honest English word that the dictionary approves and that custom sanctions.

SAINTLY PRIG FEATURES IN OWEN DAVIS

"Home Fires" Criticised as Dramatic Effect of the All and Unbelievable.

By HEYWOOD BROWN.
Dramatic Critic of the New World.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The thing we can say about "Home Fires" by Owen Davis, at the street theater, is that it has a story which might have happened in the theater, so we have not exceptions and reservations. Cause we don't like the play, though it might have happened. This is rather high praise for a play. The playwright is partly at fault for the fact that the simple materials often seemed unbelievable. The rest belongs to the cast, who by no means expert.

But, after all, our chief objection to "Home Fires" rests less on the lack of accuracy, which it reports facts than on the dramatic manner in which it is interpreted. When contented, each side ought to have its own. Owen Davis not only lumped all his weight upon one individual, but he has to hold up the most poisonous son in the proceedings as an example of all that is admirable.

At Least One Wallop.
He has taken as his chief a good wife and mother and moment does he suggest even slightest misgiving as to the effect of her continuous blattant virtue. Not one man the household whom she distracts has an inkling of the fact that she is to blame for their troubles. We are all grant in real life amusements conquer all only too often, unregenerated as it takes a while before their downfall.

We have a suburban home revolves around Mary, wife of Bedford. There are two children, Tommy and Julia, fourteen and eighteen. Three three acts, Mary is allowed gentle and firm to her family out a word of protest. She ways at hand to tell people that she is to blame for their troubles. We are all grant in real life amusements conquer all only too often, unregenerated as it takes a while before their downfall.

Given this entirely possible conditions, the household with a commendable fidelity to abilities. The eldest daughter to a roadhouse to dance, young man whom she has been hidden to see. The husband in the same roadhouse for a liaison with the wife of the neighbor. The youngest child, a movie and stays out until the little boy up to the streets, the eighteen. Three three acts, Mary is allowed gentle and firm to her family out a word of protest. She ways at hand to tell people that she is to blame for their troubles. We are all grant in real life amusements conquer all only too often, unregenerated as it takes a while before their downfall.

Continue to Mope Alone.
She was the sort of woman never had a really harsh word, anybody and she played right to put such a character wage without realizing that a monster. And if he hasn't enough to know it, some one in the house should speak his own account. Instead, it continued to the end to mope and nurse their wounds and "They don't come any better Mary."

Davis could take almost the material he has at hand, a little insight and interpret something far better than Square Peg of Lewis Reed seasons. He never discovers is dealing with tragedy, and producing a few beams of light and crushing the household out of its most of fortunes. Naturally, Mary is credit.

It seems to us that the play, as Owen Davis has it, is a pretty awkward in this play. Bedford is allowed to suffer for more for as simple a thing, to a roadhouse to dance with her wife. Mrs. Bedford, blamed by anybody when she is the least inevitable by left husband in for a dull party home of some time-some no matter of how he does and has the grimace to a headache, but that is to assist him as a villain of character.

Indeed, looking back upon theatrical experience we see no character we have ever so thoroughly as the one obliging Mary. She is carried to a point which is positively important and is fashioned by Owen Davis to find it. The misdeeds of the play, but we are enough to believe that in something painful and it does happen to the Mrs. of this world. That happy gray being omitted, we help "Home Fires" even more than any play.

There is a good portrait of a young man, a small, pretty good one, by Morgan as a young boy, a low-down to us that any of the others were quite adequate.

"Artistic and Modern" have been the words of the New York World. The New York World, Aug. 21.

SAINTLY PRIG FEATURED IN OWEN DAVIS PLAY

"Home Fires" Criticized as Producing Effect of the Alien and Unbelievable.

By HAYWOOD BROWN.
Dramatic Critic of the New York World.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The best thing we can say about "Home Fires" by Owen Davis, at the 39th street theater, is that he has devised a story which might have happened. This is rather high praise for anything in the theater, so we hasten to note exceptions and reservations because we don't like the play. Although it might have happened, it never occurred to us that it actually was happening. The playwright was partly at fault for the fact that even simple materials often seemed alien and unbelievable. The rest of the blame belongs to the cast, which is by no means expert.

But, after all, our chief objection to "Home Fires" rests less on any complaint as to the accuracy with which it reports facts than on utter dislike for the manner in which they are interpreted. When characters contend, each side ought to have its say. Owen Davis not only has lumped all his weight upon one favored individual, but he has chosen to hold up the most poisonous person in the proceedings as an example of all that is admirable.

At Least One Wallop.
He has taken as his chief figure a good wife and mother and at no moment does he suggest even the slightest misgiving as to the devastating effect of her continuous and blatant virtue. Not one member of the household whom she drives to distraction has an inkling of the fact that she is to blame for most of their troubles. We are willing to grant in real life smugness does conquer all only too often, but the unregenerate at last take a wallop at it before their downfall.

We have a suburban home which revolves around Mary, wife of Henry Bedford. There are two Bedford children, Tommy and Julia, aged thirteen and eighteen. Throughout the play, Mary is allowed to be gentle and firm to her family without a word of protest. She is always at hand to tell people things they don't want to do all exactly the moment they particularly don't want to do them. She gives and gives good deeds until they hurt. She waves usefulness like a red flag. She is so patient that everybody wants to scream.

Give this entirely possible set of conditions, the household behaves with a commendable fidelity to probability. The eldest daughter goes to a roadhouse to dance with a young man whom she has been forbidden to see. The husband goes to the same roadhouse for a mild flirtation with the wife of the man next door. The youngest child attends a dance and stays out until midnight with the little boy up the street. From the resulting mixup actual misfortune develops and Mr. Bedford loses his job. Once trouble comes to the home, Mrs. Bedford finds time of her life. We thought she had been insufferably patient before, but with poverty and ruin staring her in the face, she pressed all the stops and revealed as the effect of misfortune crunched unsuccessfully at her impregnable fortitude.

Continue to Mope About.
She was the sort of woman who really had a really hard word for anybody, and no playwright has a right to put such a character as the stage without realizing that she is a monster. And if he hasn't sense enough to know it, some character in the play ought to speak out on his own account. Instead, they all continued to the end to mope about and nurse their wounds and remark, "They don't come any better than Mary."

Davis could take almost precisely the material he has at hand and by a little insight and interpretation do something far better than "Home Fires." He never discovers that he is dealing with tragedy, and by including a few beams of luck at the end he brings the stricken household out of its most dire misfortunes. Naturally, Mary takes the credit.

It seems to us that the ethical judgment of Owen Davis is completely askew in this play. Mr. Bedford is allowed to suffer heavy remorse for as simple a thing as going to a roadhouse to dance with some one's wife. Mrs. Bedford is never blamed by anybody when she makes the jaunt inevitable by letting her husband in for a dull party at the home of some tiresome neighbors. As a matter of fact, he doesn't go to the roadhouse to dance with a headache, but that is set down against him as an evidence of lack of character.

Indeed, looking back upon a long theatrical experience, we remember no character who has ever defeated so thoroughly as the incessantly obliging Mary. Self-sacrifice may be carried to a point where it is positively impudent and the saint fashioned by Owen Davis goes beyond it. The misdeeds of the gods go on slowly, but we are optimistic enough to believe that in three acts something painful and unpleasant is bound to happen to the Mrs. Bedford of this world. That happy contingency being omitted, we have "Home Fires" even more than many a post-play.

There is a good performance by Lillian Ross as a small, and a pretty good one by Morgan Barry as a young boy. At loss not to say to us that any of the other players were quite adequate.

Curbertson, 6060 Raymond avenue. The ceremony will take place in the evening on the First Presbyterian Church, Sarah and Washington, the Rev. Chester E. Jenney officiating. About 500 guests will be invited to the church, but only relatives and intimate friends will attend the small reception afterward at the home of the bride's parents. Miss Burley and Mr. Curbertson attended Washington University, where the prospective bride became a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta and her fiancé of Sigma Nu.

Mrs. Leland Boogher of 4431 Bartmer avenue entertained with an informal luncheon bridge party today for her sister, Mrs. Fred Perrigo of Chicago, who arrived Saturday to remain about ten days. Dr. and Mrs. Boogher recently returned from an extended western trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Bray of 4719 Westminster place returned last week from a five weeks' motor tour in the East. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Howard McCutcheon of Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Garneau of 4954 Lindell boulevard are at the Ambassador, Los Angeles.

Mrs. Douglas V. Martin Jr. of 704 Intervale, has as a guest Miss Frances Mitchell of Columbia, Mo. who arrived Sunday evening. Several informal affairs are to be given during Miss Mitchell's stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Upthegrove of 6123 Westminster place returned last week from a five weeks' motor tour in the East. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Howard McCutcheon of Kansas City.

Miss Mildred Petring of 6 Washington terrace, is motoring to Chicago with a party of friends for a short stay.

Miss Addie May Humphreys of Erie, Pa., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. Ferris, 6956 Washington boulevard, University City.

Mr. and Mrs. George Walden Porter of 6326 Cates avenue will depart next week for Colorado, to remain until October.

The St. Louis alumni chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity entertained at a "best girl" party at Lake Hill Park last evening. Among the guests were wives of a number of members. Swimming was followed by dinner and dancing.

Mrs. S. G. Jonah and daughter, Miss Lois, of 5355 Pershing avenue, and Miss Edith Short, Louise Humphray and Marie Ferris will return to St. Louis about Sept. 3 from spending the summer at the Short summer home on Cayuga Lake, N. Y.

Dr. William S. Smit of 4224 Westminster place has returned from Europe. Mrs. Smit and the children, John and Mary, are at Ocean City, South Haven, Mich., will return early in September.

Mrs. Lora A. Hughes and daughter, Miss Carrie, of 5438 Page boulevard, have been spending the summer at Appleton, Wis., with Thomas S. Hughes and family. They were joined last week by Mrs. Hughes' daughter, Mrs. Frederick E. Evans, and two children, Hughes and Jean, of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Sidney S. May and daughter, Gen. of 2555 Enright avenue. They will tour to several Wisconsin resorts in the next two weeks.

Miss Anna and Louise Becker of 5137 Enright avenue have returned from a month in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Crosby of 7426 Maple boulevard, Maplewood, returned yesterday from New York.

Miss Hannah Sheritz of 5635 Cozons avenue entertained forty guests last evening for Miss Sarah Kreisman of 3138 Sheridan avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dwyer of 4059 McPherson avenue are in Italy. They sailed on the Aquitania late in June and Modela," at the Shubert theater. Primarily poignant among the series of episodes which the Shuberts unveiled last night at the theater which bears their name were the prologue and the finale. In these two scenes, the chorus girls broke the American record by appearing with simply slim wisps of chiffon above their waists. Never before in an American revue has a similar degree of nudity obtained. In "Aphrodite" and occasional other productions performers have gone virtually unclothed, but they had stood immobile or have been shaded in dim lights. In the present instance, they marched and danced in full glare of the footlights.

The remainder of the evening was entertaining in the usual manner of musical revues. There was the black face comedian, the ukelele scene and the Japanese prints. There were the reinforcement of beautiful maidens, rushed in wherever the humorous and musical ammunition ran low. There was a succession of highly colored scenes, the usual allotment of acrobatic stunts, and a smattering of mickers.

A large gathering of citizens seemed to approve virtually every occurrence. Just why they approved of an overdose of discolored jokes is a mystery. In the aforementioned examples of undress, they seemed particularly interested. No doubt, their interest will be exceeded only by that of the censors before many a picture have fallen on the censurement.

LOUVRE OFFICIALS TO COMPARE TWO DA VINCI'S

Confident French Museum's Copy Is Original and Mrs. Hahn's a Copy.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—Permission will be granted Mrs. Andree Hahn to compare her painting, "La Belle Ferronniere," with Leonardo da Vinci's recognized original hanging in the Louvre, officials of the museum said today, although no formal request for the comparison has yet been received.

The rulers governing the Louvre forbid the experts attached to the institution from giving opinions on the genuineness of any painting, but when experts that Da Vinci may have painted a replica of his original "La Belle Ferronniere," as he is said to have done in the case of his famous "Mona Lisa."

The Louvre experts, while forbidden to give an opinion on outside paintings, are sanguine that the "La Belle Ferronniere," now in the Louvre is the original. It formerly hung in the Fontainebleau, but when royalty removed to Versailles, the art treasures followed. Later Louis XIV, visiting Fontainebleau, was struck by the denuded appearance of the walls of the former palace, and ordered distinguished painters to make copies of all the pictures removed from the palace a century before.

This was done, in one instance two or three copies being made and transported back to Fontainebleau. These pictures, with the exception of five which now hang in the Louvre, all disappeared in the French revolution. The copies in the Louvre look practically like the originals, as the same methods were used in mixing the colors and the canvases now are cracked by age. Officials of the Louvre express the opinion that the paintings purporting to be old masters which are cropping up from time to time originated in the Fontainebleau collection of copies. In the case of "La Belle Ferronniere," it is said, two copies were made, one of which was by one of the most prominent French painters of the seventeenth century. The Louvre experts say this painting would be likely to fool many experienced persons, as well as the uninitiated.

They were joined last week by Mrs. Hughes' daughter, Mrs. Frederick E. Evans, and two children, Hughes and Jean, of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Sidney S. May and daughter, Gen. of 2555 Enright avenue. They will tour to several Wisconsin resorts in the next two weeks.

Miss Anna and Louise Becker of 5137 Enright avenue have returned from a month in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Crosby of 7426 Maple boulevard, Maplewood, returned yesterday from New York.

Mrs. T. J. Cole, her son Milton, and daughter, Miss Ruth, of 2717 Wyoming street, are at Ocean City, N. J., and will go to New York before returning to St. Louis.

Miss Hannah Sheritz of 5635 Cozons avenue entertained forty guests last evening for Miss Sarah Kreisman of 3138 Sheridan avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dwyer of 4059 McPherson avenue are in Italy. They sailed on the Aquitania late in June and Modela," at the Shubert theater. Primarily poignant among the series of episodes which the Shuberts unveiled last night at the theater which bears their name were the prologue and the finale. In these two scenes, the chorus girls broke the American record by appearing with simply slim wisps of chiffon above their waists. Never before in an American revue has a similar degree of nudity obtained. In "Aphrodite" and occasional other productions performers have gone virtually unclothed, but they had stood immobile or have been shaded in dim lights. In the present instance, they marched and danced in full glare of the footlights.

The remainder of the evening was entertaining in the usual manner of musical revues. There was the black face comedian, the ukelele scene and the Japanese prints. There were the reinforcement of beautiful maidens, rushed in wherever the humorous and musical ammunition ran low. There was a succession of highly colored scenes, the usual allotment of acrobatic stunts, and a smattering of mickers.

A large gathering of citizens seemed to approve virtually every occurrence. Just why they approved of an overdose of discolored jokes is a mystery. In the aforementioned examples of undress, they seemed particularly interested. No doubt, their interest will be exceeded only by that of the censors before many a picture have fallen on the censurement.

U. S. NOW HAS GREATEST OF JEWISH LIBRARIES

Some of Its Books and Manuscripts Date as Far Back as 690 A. D.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—With the acquisition of the great Nathan Elkan Alder Library, the Jewish Theological Seminary of America has become the world's largest Jewish library. It is stated by Dr. Cyrus Adler, acting president of the institution. The 40,000 volumes and 4000 manuscripts, many of them dating as far back as the thirteenth century of the Christian era, some of them written in 690, are now being unpacked and classified by Prof. Alexander Marx, on the top floor of the seminary building here. Added to the already significant collection already installed there, these are said to make the Jewish Seminary Library the greatest of its kind in the world, as well as the greatest in historic value.

The room on the top floor of the seminary building is filled with thousands of volumes and manuscripts. Here is an original autograph of "Responsa" by the illustrious Maimonides, the Rambam; or a royal decree relating to the Spanish Inquisition and signed by Ferdinand and Isabella. Another volume is a beautifully written copy of the Later Prophets, done in the ninth century. Somewhere in the cases will be found Ben Asher's Commentary written in the eighth century.

Today's edition itself, and one comes into intimate contact with the martyrs of the Spanish Inquisition when he picks up a black-bound volume and discovers that it is an official record of the auto-da-fé of 1627, including lists of the "heretics" sentenced to burning at the stake and the sermons preached on these ceremonial occasions. Torquemada's signature—the sinister chirograph of that highest official of the Inquisition—is attached to another document.

The far-reaching arm of the Inquisition reveals itself in a list of persons residing in Spain found guilty of the treasonable practice of maintaining communication with Jews who had fled to Holland to escape the stake.

Closely by one picks up another royal document, signed by another Ferdinand, a Hapsburg, who, from his palace in Vienna, issued a sort of "safe-conduct" for some "Hot-Jude," whom he commended to the courtesy and hospitality of the road. Another document attested by Ferdinand and Isabella, ceded to some monastic order lands expropriated from Jews who may have fallen in the Inquisition.

Another volume is Joseph ben Chananyah's codification of Jewish law, written in Palestine during the Thirteenth century, or a Hagaddah, a Fifteenth Century prayer book, in beautiful Hebrew lettering standing out as clearly on the parchment as though written yesterday. Some of these are beautifully illuminated, the headings and initial letters done in pure silver and gold, or in various-colored links.

ENGLISH PRISONERS GIVEN
VIRTUAL SELF-GOVERNMENT

Wakefield Jail Has Perfect System Like That in English Public Schools.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 21.—Prison reform is popular just now in England, where it is used to be regarded as purely an American notion. The latest thing in prison reform has been adopted in Wakefield Jail, with excellent results, it is said. The prison, which was closed in 1916, has been reopened as a training center for adult prisoners.

The underlying idea of the training is to teach the prisoners to "play the game." Scarcely a warden is to be seen. To maintain order the perfect system of the English public schools has been adopted. Solitary confinement has been abolished, and there is no restraint on conversation at meal times. The men all have allotments. They work in pairs—a man who knows something of gardening being coupled with a man who knows nothing about it. Every prisoner who does well is allowed to grow a border of flowers to decorate his "room," as the cells are called. There is plenty of work done—nine hours manual, two hours mental. Work is arranged under expert instructors in the weaving shed, foundry, builders' yard and other workshops. One hour a week is devoted to discussion of happenings in the outside world on all topics except crime.

GIANT MOTOR FOR AIR SHIP

English Experts Experimenting on New Type of Machine of 250 H. P.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 21.—The British Air Ministry experts are at work perfecting an airplane engine capable of developing 1500 horsepower, which will be the largest known. Two trial engines are nearing completion and will soon be tested. The new giant of the air will have six cylinders, each developing 250 horsepower.

If the present experiments are successful, the experts will begin work on a 15-cylinder engine to have more than 2000 horsepower. Airplanes fitted with three such engines will be capable of developing upwards of 5000 horsepower, and will carry 120 passengers at 100 miles an hour.

Would Move County Sheriff's Office.
Circuit Judge Wurdeman of St. Louis County has requested the County Court to issue an order for removal of the Sheriff's residence, which adjoins the jail in Clayton, to make room for the juvenile court which is in the basement of the courthouse. Jan. 1, 1925, is the date set for vacating the premises.

Sleep renews your mental energy
as food restores your body

Everyone knows that the French appreciate food highly. That they set an equal value on the restoring power of sleep is shown by their proverb: "Who sleeps, dines."

To throw off fatigue poisons and rebuild body and brain, however, your sleep must be unbroken.

Your bed must support your body evenly—conform to it—invite relaxation—put no strain on any member. In such deep, restful sleep, you store reserve power for the needs of the longest day.

Set aside time today to call on your furniture dealer and get acquainted with Simmons mattresses and springs.

Study them. Test them carefully. There are types to suit any taste and prices to fit any pocketbook.

Compare their lasting quality and sleep-coaxing luxury with the bed you are using now. Then decide whether a vigorous body and clear brain are not worth more to you than the trifling cost of Simmons sleep comfort.

CRIME TO BE AN I. W. W.
Washington Prosecutor Orders Return of Papers to Men Arrested.
WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 21.—The crime to belong to the Industrial Workers of the World, according to Prosecuting Attorney G. H. Gillis, ordered the return of three sacks full of I. W. W. literature, membership cards and other papers to four alleged members of the organization arrested yesterday by a Deputy Sheriff. The four men were arrested while distributing their pamphlets along a highway. Gillis decided that there was nothing to prove that the I. W. W. advocated syndicalism as defined by the State law.

NEW BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Lincoln Housing Trust to Be Converted Into $15,000,000 Corporation.

Articles for incorporation of the Lincoln Savings Trust and Loan Association, with a capitalization of $15,000,000, were filed yesterday. This is one of the final steps toward conversion of the Lincoln Housing Trust, a common law trust, into a building and loan association.

The capitalization of the new building and loan association is larger than any similar association in the world, Edward W. Foristel, a director, said today. Foristel was a trustee in the Lincoln Housing Trust. As customary in such organizations the capital stock will be paid in by the shareholders in installments. The application stated that $5000 of the capital has been paid in.

Effect on Receivability.
Foristel said that if certificate holders of the common law trust co-operated in the conversion of the organization as it is expected they will do, State Finance Commissioner Millsap, temporary receiver for the Housing trust, would shortly be able to wind up his supervision. The change from a common law trust to a building and loan association will not affect clients of the organization. Foristel said. The method of handling payments, loans and the rates of interest will be identical. Minor changes in phraseology of contracts will be necessary, because of operation under different laws.

So that holders of certificates in the housing trust which have been hypothecated for loans may participate in the building and loan association it is planned to form the Lincoln Finance Corporation, with a capital of $500,000. This concern will handle loans made on the certificates, so they may be cleared, thus enabling the holders to participate in the building and loan association.

Plans for Settling Claims.
Arrangements will be made to segregate for administration of the temporary receiver the certificates of those who do not wish to participate in the new organization. Directors of the Building and Loan Associations are: Ben G. Brinkman, Foristel, Charles Hertenstein, Cornelius Roach, T. A. Parker, H. F. Riefling and J. A. Lee. All were connected with the Housing Trust except Riefling and Lee. Lee for many years was State Superintendent of Building and Loan Associations. All directors are St. Louisans except Roach who is president of the Metropolitan Bank of Kansas City. He formerly was Secretary of State for Missouri.

MINUTES OF WARD GRAND JURY SURRENDERED TO HIS LAWYERS

Record to Be Made Public as Soon as Possible, Attorney Declares.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The office of State Attorney-General Sherman yesterday surrendered the minutes of the Westchester County extraordinary grand jury which re-indicted Walter S. Ward last month for slaying Clarence M. Peters.

Senator Babcock of the law firm of Babcock and Scribner said the records of the panel which returned a first degree murder indictment against Ward will be made public as soon as possible. The motion, he based on the minutes, for dismissal of the indictment, for a lesser charge, will be made Friday. The records given out last night show that the first witness to appear before the grand jury, June 25, was State Trooper Ralph Collins. He testified that, May 16, 1922, he was instructed to go to Chappaqua Road, near Kenosia reservoir, where the body of a man had been found. Trooper Harry Green went with him, he said.

Collins said he was able to find only one cartridge shell in the vicinity. This was considered significant because of Ward's assertion that a pistol fight occurred there. Collins said also he was unable to discover any sign of a struggle. He testified the clothes on Peters' body were carefully arranged "as if it had been done after he had been shot." Collins said he saw the tracks of but one automobile and no footprints.

SHOT THROUGH DOOR WOUNDS STORE OWNER FLEEING HOLDUP

Three Robbers Then Take $6 in Jewelry, Street Delicatessen Place and Escape.

William Guerke, 45 years old, proprietor of a delicatessen store at 3974 Junata street, was shot in the right arm near the elbow at 11:40 last night by one of five holdup men whom he attempted to elude when they held up the place. He lives above the store. After treatment by a physician, he went to his home. Guerke told police one man entered the place and ordered a package of cigarettes. While he was waiting on this "customer," four others entered, each with a revolver and masked with a handkerchief. When they ordered him to put up his hands, he rushed for a door leading to a stairway going upstairs and slammed the door behind him. One of the robbers fired at the door slammed, the bullet passing through the door before hitting Guerke. The men then took $6 from the register and escaped.

Why U.S. Rubber Products enjoy such an Envious Reputation for Uniform Quality

At one time or another—probably many times—you have used some article made of or containing rubber, and bearing the celebrated "U.S." Mark of Quality. It may have been a pair of Keds, or "U.S." Rubbers or Rubber Boots—or a Raynster—or a length of Garden Hose—or a sheet of "Rainbow" Packing—or a Hot Water Bottle—or a Royal Cord Tire. But whatever the specific item, large or small, you found it showing an exceptionally high standard of quality.

Positive Control of Raw Materials
Much of this exceptional "U.S." quality is the inevitable outcome of the ideals and experience of the oldest and largest rubber organization in the world. But even the highest order of skill and ideals and integrity can go only so far in manufacture unless the quality of raw materials is under positive control.

The source of all crude rubber is the Rubber Latex—the milky fluid which flows from a rubber tree when it is tapped. In furthering its ideals of what rubber should be and do about 15 years ago the United States Rubber Company started to gain control of its own supply of rubber latex—uniform in quality and adequate in quantity.

This Company owns and operates today rubber plantations totalling 172 square miles in Sumatra and on the Malay Peninsula. It has 5,000,000 rubber trees—selected specimens of Hevea Brasiliensis, planted and cultivated as intensively as an orchard of prize fruit trees. It produces its rubber latex to the extent of millions of gallons every year—uniform in quality.

It has practically unlimited facilities for expansion as more trees are planted—and as the plantations now bearing come into fuller maturity. It is the only rubber manufacturing company in the world that grows its own rubber in any considerable quantity.

Now—even if this were all, you would probably agree that it in itself would be enough to give "U.S." Rubber Products the preference among buyers and users of rubber goods.

But this is not all, by any means. A few weeks ago, the United States Rubber Company announced its new Sprayed Rubber.

Sprayed Rubber is the product of a new method of treating rubber latex. It is the first truly scientific method—because it is the first that works with the natural qualities of the latex instead of against them. Briefly, it sprays the latex in a snow white mist into pure super-heated air—driving the water out—nothing else. It does away both with the old primitive smoketreatment, and the acid treatment of the latex, the only two methods known before.

One Hundred Per Cent Pure Rubber
It delivers 100% pure virgin rubber solids—free from smoke and acid residues. In the panel on the right you will see the names of a few of the outstanding "U.S." Rubber Products to the manufacture of which Sprayed Rubber is applicable. These products are uniform in quality, service and value. They are under the direct control of this Company every step of the way, beginning with the tapping of the latex from the rubber tree. At the same time that this Company announced Sprayed Rubber, it also announced two other discoveries of major importance—with special application to Cord Tires:

The new Web Cord
The new Flat-Band Method of Building a Cord Tire

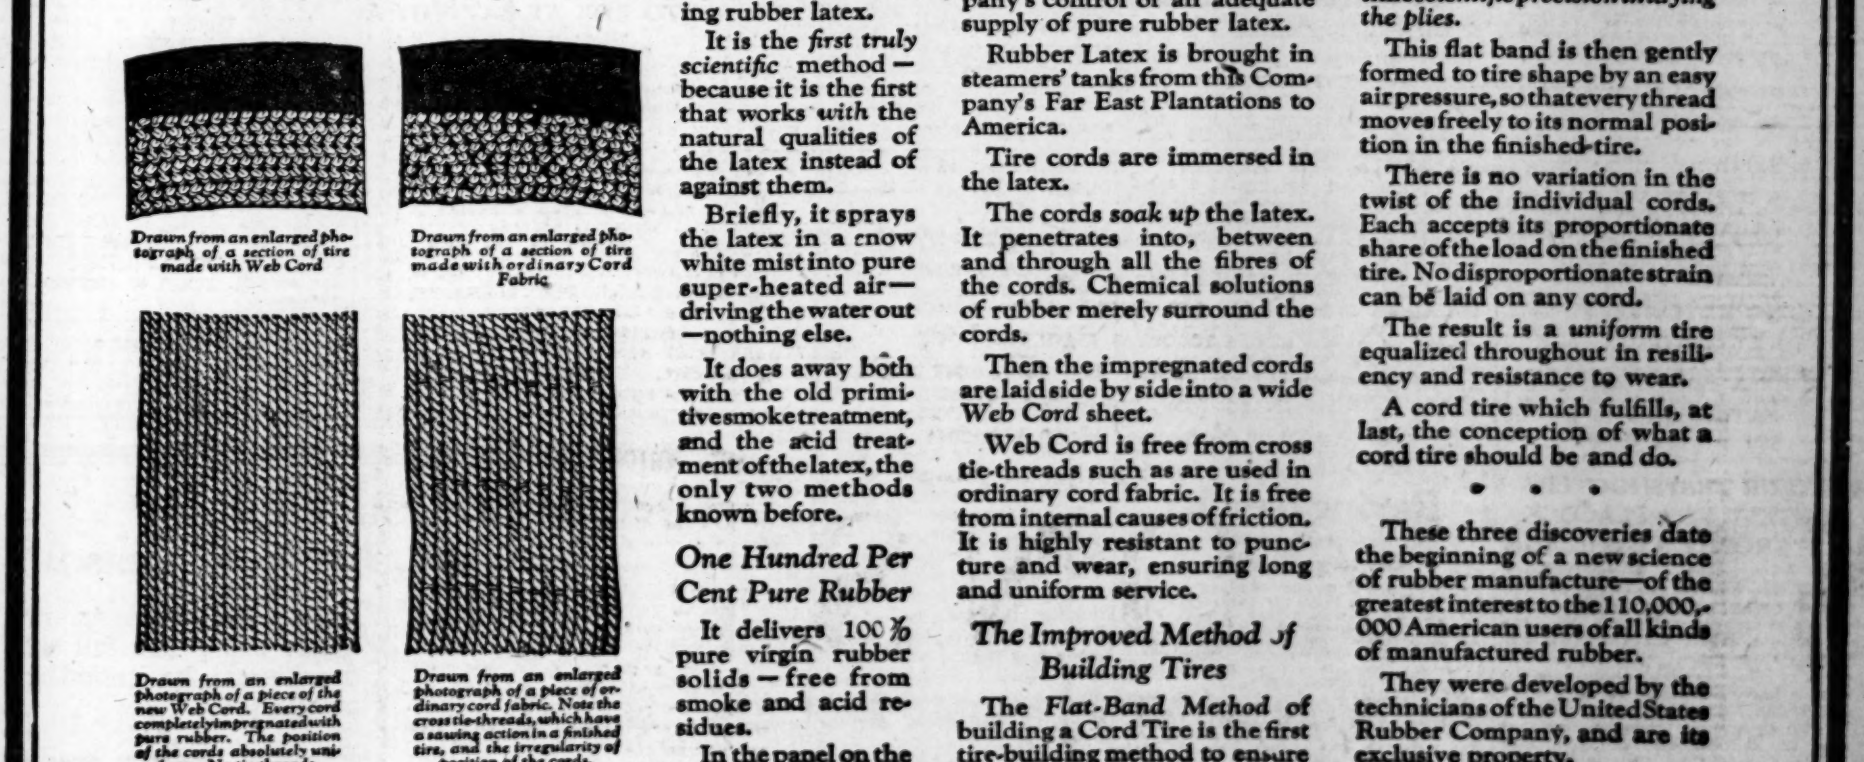

For some time now, motorists of this country have been riding on "U.S." Royal Cord Tires built on a new principle. Unannounced, but delivering a service that has been unquestionably the outstanding tire performance since the beginning of the automobile.

This may explain perhaps why you hear people saying everywhere that "U.S." Royal Cords are the most uniform tires made.

Web Cord is the first true rubber-webbed cord structure. It depends entirely on the United States Rubber Company's control of an adequate supply of pure rubber latex.

Rubber Latex is brought in steamers' tanks from this Company's Far East Plantations to America. Tire cords are immersed in the latex. The cords soak up the latex. It penetrates into, between and through all the fibres of the cords. Chemical solutions of rubber merely surround the cords. Then the impregnated cords are laid side by side into a wide Web Cord sheet. Web Cord is free from cross threads such as are used in ordinary cord fabric. It is free from internal causes of friction. It is highly resistant to puncture and wear, ensuring long and uniform service.

The Improved Method of Building Tires
The Flat-Band Method of Building a Cord Tire is the first tire-building method to ensure equal length, equal angle, and equal tension of all the cords in the tire. The tire is built flat on a drum. This gives for the first time scientific precision in laying the plies. This flat band is then gently formed to tire shape by an easy air pressure, so that every thread moves freely to its normal position in the finished tire. There is no variation in the twist of the individual cords. Each accepts its proportionate share of the load on the finished tire. No disproportionate strain can be laid on any cord. The result is a uniform tire equalized throughout in resiliency and resistance to wear. A cord tire which fulfills, at last, the conception of what a cord tire should be and do.

These three discoveries date the beginning of a new science of rubber manufacture—of the greatest interest to the 110,000,000 American users of all kinds of manufactured rubber. They were developed by the technicians of the United States Rubber Company, and are its exclusive property.

Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory's Long Reign Being Over, Miss Wills Will Now Take the Reins

Browns Put Off Stride by Recent Distracting Incidents, Manager Says After 5th Straight Defeat

Danforth, Wild and Ineffective, Retires After 3 1-3 Innings—Recruit Mitchell of Washington Holds St. Louis Club to Five Hits—Senators Have Shown Real Ability.

By J. Roy Stockton.

The Browns lost five straight games. The team's percentage has slumped until it is below .500. Whereas a few weeks ago second place was within reach, the club now is in fourth place, with the fifth-place Washington Senators only half a game behind.

If the Washington club has been showing anything that approximates its usual defensive and offensive strength, the team belongs in the first division. In fact the club, in taking three straight from the men of Jimmy Austin, has looked like the strongest enemy the Yankees have in the league.

But what explains the slump of the Browns? What reversed the machine and pointed it down, where as recently it was either holding its own or fighting upward?

"We're a bit disorganized, that's the trouble," said Jimmy Austin, when questioned yesterday. "I don't mean that there's lack of co-operation or that the boys are not working together. I mean that we're all rattled and unstrung and there's been enough trouble recently to upset any team. In the first place the managerial staff kept everybody up late at night. The Danforth case worried the boys and got them excited. Then the row over Kenny Williams' lat. It may take several days before the Browns can regain their poise and start on a winning streak. I'm not worried. They are still within reach of a money position and they'll hit their stride."

Conditions Not Ideal.

"It hasn't done us any good in the last week to have a deposed manager hanging around the park either. You know how it is. He gets one player and then another, meets them accidentally, but he talks to them just the same and naturally he tells them his troubles. And the boys had that on their minds and Danforth's troubles and Williams' troubles. And I'm not sure that's helped matters."

Things ought to clear up some from now on. Owner Phil Ball yesterday explained his "for the good of the game" telegram, relieving Lee Fohl, and the Browns' owner followed this up by paying off Fohl and sending him on his way.

Fohl decided that Ball's revised statement that he had relieved Fohl for the good of the game as played by the Browns was satisfactory and with his salary for the balance of the season in his pocket he prepared to depart for his home in Cleveland.

Danforth Has a Bad Day.

Manager Austin believes that Dave Danforth will be permitted to pitch in place from now on. Since his suspension Dave has started two games. He was beaten last Thursday when he held the Yankees to three hits and yesterday he was taken out of the game in the fourth inning after giving three straight bases en out of the game in the fourth inning after giving three straight bases en out of the game in the fourth

Army of Bushers Will Soon Invade Sportsman's Park

Cardinals Are Loaded Up With Youngsters, Who Will Be Eligible After Aug. 31.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—The time is approaching for the annual influx of youngsters into the Cardinal fold.

Under the present league regulations, the limit of 25 players to a team holds until Aug. 31. After that date, they may have 40, if they so desire.

A small army of youths already has been booked to invade St. Louis about the time the Rickey men get home, early in September. Scouts have combed the baseball highways, byways, and bushes, and as a result of their travels, troubles and labors, Sportsman's Park will be the goal for collegians and sand-lotters, when the present trip is ended.

Just what stars there may be among the new comers is not known. Some undoubtedly look better when they're far away, as there is a big difference between classes C or D and the majors. However, the main point is that there'll be a crowd on hand when Rickey comes marching home.

These youths are coming from all points of the compass, according to present information. If there be one lone available man, among them, their mission will have been fulfilled for new stars are badly needed in the major circuits—the old ones are fading, slowly, it is true, but none the less, surely.

Major Leagues Need New Blood.

Charley Barrett has been "on the road" almost constantly this summer and he has lately been aided by Fred Hunter who started the season as manager of the Fort Smith club of the Western Association. Then, there are several volunteer scouts who pick up a few hundreds each year by tipping managers off to promising prospects.

Some day, someone will come along with a scouting bureau with the business really systematized and organized, and that someone will make a flock of money.

Desperate measures must be taken to get young blood and able blood into the big show, unless the game is to be allowed to greatly deteriorate.

PRICES IRREGULAR ON STOCK MARKET; CHANGES SMALL

Buying of Independent Steels a Feature of Market—Bonds Firm—Exchange Market Better.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today says:

Today's markets showed little tendency to pull together and as on the previous day considerable spottiness was in evidence. In stocks, while sentiment was noticeably more cheerful there was a tendency to wait further developments in the domestic and foreign situations. Operations meanwhile were divided between further continued quiet and lack of persistent buying of independent steel issues and certain specialties, particularly American Can. While the market as a whole could not be said to have gained anywhere in particular it gave little encouragement to short sellers. Closing prices were irregular but not greatly changed except in a few instances. Bonds continued quiet and firm. Call money held at 5 throughout.

EXCHANGE MARKET BETTER.

Reports of a more hopeful feeling in Paris following the dispatch of the government's reply to the request from the British Foreign Secretary strengthened the market for exchange on the allied countries. French francs led the advance with a rise of seven points to 54.25 cents. Belgian franc rose two points to 4.45 cents and lire a point to 4.20 cents. Sterling, however, had only a slight rise from 14.15, showing a gain of 1/2 cent. It was announced from Paris that the details of the French note would not be made public but the feeling in advance of its publication was that it lessened the possibility of independent action by Germany by great Britain which it would not settle the leading points at issue in the Ruhr controversy.

An advance of 35 to 40 English points in the Liverpool cotton market proved a surprise to traders on this side and led to a hurried scramble of the shorts to cover. Liverpool was better off than the other cotton markets. The American crop might prove to be less than 11,000,000 bushels, a decrease from 12,000,000 shown a net gain of 15 points.

There was considerable advance in corn, the September advancing 2 1/2 cents to 86 1/2, a price representing a new high for the year. The strength is due to the small stocks on hand. Owing to heavy feeding operations the demand for corn has been in excess of the crop and the new crop is not yet ready for market.

LONDONERS ARE CURIOUS, TOO, ABOUT HIGH SOCIAL PERSONAGES

When wealthy brides are almost mobbed by uninvited spectators in America, we are prone to think that it is a national peculiarity. But the public is just the same in England. When Lady Rachel Cavendish, daughter of the Duke of Devonshire, married the Hon. James Stuart in London a few days ago, crowds of uninvited spectators, mostly women, thronged about the pair as they left the church, closely inspected the bride's gown and thrust cameras into her face, all of which she took in good part.

LOUNGING JACOTTES

When, oh, when, will people stop being so curious and, besides, lose time and energy in watching somebody suffer? It

How much easier it would be for such a person if only two or three people who happen to be on the spot were left alone and be permitted to give the first aid needed. How much more readily it would help the suffering one cannot be estimated.

The crowd itself is a source of alarm to the person who has been hurt, since he fears he is more injured perhaps than he actually is.

There is something weak, yes, truly morbid, about the individual who must stand by and make numbers on occasions like this. This undue curiosity might well be curbed. Much good would result for all concerned.

DRAMA IN THE CHURCH

By Wm. A. McKeever

DRAMATIZE the old selections in the hymn book; have the children perform on the stage in pantomime while the choir and the congregation sing the words—that is the newest scheme for filling empty pews and giving the young an interesting part in the worship.

I have just found this plan to be in practice weekly in a suburban church where the members were drifting away to the larger city churches or to no church at all. And, best of all, the new method is filling the house with old and young and is producing a near-revival in the spirit of worship.

The arrangements for this new plan of juvenile performance are very simple and the ceremony itself is equally impressive. A collapsible extension to the stage has been made, so that the children may take their places in front of the minister and in full view of the congregation. While the choir sings a processional the children march in robed in white or to suit the selection to be sung. Then the hymn is led by the choir and in keeping with its lines the children go through a series of silent and reverent poses.

"It has brought to my attention certain meanings which I did not know the old hymns contained," said a regular attendant.

"I have been singing these old songs in a thoughtless way for 20 years," said another, "but I never really knew their significance till the children began to dramatize them." So, many others expressed surprise and delight at the innovation.

As to the significance of the song drama for the children themselves even more might be said. The child is distinctively performer rather than a listener. We have tried for generations to induce the young crowd to come to church and sit attentively through the expositions and arguments of

The moral here for churchmen and for us guardians of the young is this: There is nothing the matter with the young crowd of today if they seem irreverent and inclined to ignore our moral and spiritual purposes for them. The fault is in ourselves. We fail to adapt modes of teaching and of worship to changing conditions, and to make arrangements that will awaken their normal interests and use their natural desires. But children are always dramatic.

JACQUETTES FROM PARIS

ODD and INTERESTING FACTS

"It is certainly a very odd thing," comments a learned English writer on dress, "that most of the chief kinds of dress at present worn by women in England are copied from dresses first worn by men. Some of these dresses, which men once wore, are the gown, robe, frock, blouse, jacket and, strangest of all, the petticoat."

Gas attacks as a means of overcoming an enemy are recorded as far back as 189 B. C., when jars were filled with feathers which were set alight, the smoke being blown with bellows into the faces of the foe.

The Cid—Rodríguez Díaz di Divar—was a celebrated Spanish warrior, who flourished between the years 1030 and 1099. He was the hero of Castilla. The Cid was born at Burgos and distinguished himself in the Civil Wars in the reigns of Ferdinand, Alphonso VI. (of Leon and Castille) and Sancho II, and afterward against the Moors. His wife was Ximena, daughter of Count Lozano de Gormaz. His son, Diego Rodríguez, died young, and he had two daughters, Elvira and Sol.

Wild animals have their own way of spreading news. According to Mr. Cherry Kearton, the big game hunter, even lions are susceptible to the "danger" message and have deserted many of their old haunts.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A New Acquaintance

By Thornton W. Burgess

Appearances sometimes deceive; Be not too ready to believe.

NOW, the big rooster, who had chased the venturesome young Chuck under Farmer Brown's barn couldn't get through the hole the young Chuck had gone through. He wouldn't have gone under there, anyway. He had no liking for dark places. As soon as the young Chuck had disappeared the big rooster stretched up to his full height, opened his mouth and crowed. "Cockle-doodle-doo! Cockle-doodle-doo!" crowed the rooster, and then very proudly walked back to where the hens were for them to admire his bravery.

Never had the young Chuck heard a rooster crow before, excepting in the distance, and it made him shiver. The big rooster seemed a very terrible fellow to the young Chuck, and he had no desire to see more of him.

"I'll stay here until those big birds go away," said the young Chuck to himself. "I guess it was a mistake coming up here. I guess that funny Old Mr. Toad was right. However, this seems like a good hiding place, so I'll just stay here until there is a chance to get back to the Green Meadows."

For a while the young Chuck squatted right close to the hole through which he had entered. But he grew tired of sitting still. He decided to look around under Farmer Brown's barn. For some time he crept about, examining everything he found. He was beginning to feel quite at home. He had seen and heard nothing to be afraid of.

Suddenly, in the darkest corner, he came face to face with a stranger. It was so sudden and unexpected that the young Chuck was badly frightened. Not knowing what else to do, he drew back his lips so as to show his teeth and growled down in his throat. It was the wisest thing he could have done. The stranger backed up a little. "Who are you?" he demanded in a fierce, squeaky voice.

"Never mind who I am. Who are you?" growled the young Chuck.

"I'm Robber the Rat. And I don't allow anybody in here," replied the stranger, trying to appear very bold and fierce.

"Well, what are you going to do

"Never mind who I am; who are you?" growled the young Chuck about it?" growled the young Chuck, for by this time he had discovered that this stranger with the fierce looking eyes was no bigger than himself. In fact, if anything he was a wee bit smaller. So the

Bible Thought

For Today

RIGHTHOUSNESS BRINGS PEACE.—The work of righteousness shall be peace; and the effect of righteousness, quietness and assurance forever. And my people shall dwell in a peaceable habitation, and in sure dwellings, and in quiet resting places.—Isaiah 32: 17, 18.

Young Chuck put on a bold face and stood his ground.

"Nothing just now," replied Robber the Rat in his squeaky voice, for he was a clever fellow, and of no mind to fight if a fight could be avoided. "Tell me how you happen to be here," he asked in a mild tone. "I am not used to having visitors, so you must excuse me if I seemed a bit impolite."

Now, though he didn't know it, the young Chuck had begun to feel lonesome, and he was only too glad to have someone to talk to. He told Robber the Rat who he was and how he had started out to see the Great World. He told him of the terrible big bird that had chased him under the barn. At this Robber grinned. You see, he guessed right away that that rooster had mistaken the young Chuck for himself.

Fashion News Notes

Dream landscapes decorate the newest bathing capes in Paris. This is a voluminous affair of seagreen sponge, the strange hills, trees and villages being done in black wool.

Lace and ribbons, sometimes in matching shades, brighten the little straw cloches which remain firmly planted in fashion's affection. Golden brown ribbon under golden brown lace formed a soft band and bow on one wood brown hat.

The newest veil, which has shifted its position pretty well all over the head this season, is to become a valance beneath the hat brim. Just a little flounce of embroidered net, hanging scarcely below the eyes, is the latest idea.

The ribbon bandeau is creeping in again as an afternoon coiffure ornament. It is tied midway between the eyebrows and the crown of the head, in a fashion borrowed from the beach girl.

East Indian bedspreads having been made into frocks, are now being converted into lingerie. They are, of course, a trifle heavy for use as envelopes or knickers. But as nightgowns, pajamas and costume slips they are highly effective.

Arabian toque is a reality in Paris. It is a closely fitted turban of brocade silk, the ends falling around the shoulders in approved Arab style.

Perfect Cleanliness

Old Dutch Cleanser gives you perfect cleanliness in the bathroom and all through the house. This means absolutely clean, not only free from visible dirt, but from hidden impurities as well. Everything you clean with it, therefore, is wholesome and sanitary.

The secret of the thoroughness and efficiency of Old Dutch lies in the character of its fine particles, which are free from hard, jagged grit. They are flat-shaped, made that way by nature. They erase the dirt without injuring the surface, and do not scratch or grind it off like sharp grit. Being flat, they do a greater amount of cleaning, easier and better, than anything else you can buy.

Old Dutch won't harm the hands because it contains no lye or acids. For convenience, keep a can in the bathroom as well as the kitchen. There is nothing like Old Dutch for perfect cleanliness.

JEW'S INCENSED
AT RABBI CHARGE WITH WINE SA

Meeting of Cemetery Association Decides Jan Grodsky Has Embarrassed His People.

SPEAKERS EXPRESS THEIR INDIGNAT

Plan to Petition Congress Repeal Part of Volstead Act Permitting Wine Sacramental Purposes.

Nightous indignation was pressed last night at a meeting of the Jewish cemetery association, at 414 and Park avenues, against Jacob Grodzky of Sharis Sphard gregation, who was arrested by eral prohibition enforcement
last week on a charge of dispo
sacramental wine for sale
"bootleggers."

It was the sense of the meeting
Rabbi Grodzky had embarrassed people; had violated the ten his religion; should be expelled
the rabbinate, and should be expelled from the congregation.
Volstead Act permitting the di posal of wine for sacramental purposes. It was decided to conference of all Jewish com munities to attain this end, and a committee was appointed to arrange for the conference. The will be the communication of which might be accomplished.

Denial Grodsky Has Charge
The cemetery association has 1,180 members from the various tzedok congregations in St. Louis. The meeting was called by Louis Lipman, building committee officer in the Pierce building, president of Sharis Spafard Congregation, of which Grodsky was the rabbi. Lipman was asserting that Grodsky has not been the Rabbi for 18 months, although he still occupies the rabbinate at 1508 Wash. street. Grodsky, who has had his foot across our threshold year," Lipman declared.

The offense charged against Grodsky is one which is possible under the regulations governing the issuance of Jewish congregations' purposes. He was a member of Kapovitch's 2823 street was being carrying two of champagne from the residence. Kapovitch said $116 for the champagne, which was the rabbi's duty in maintaining that as the Sharis Spafard congregation, a legal right to dispense with members of his congregation is to have his head in the United States Commissioner Aus-

The Meeting Began in English. The meeting last night began, the chairman on a platform at one end with a large majority for a gavel, and the vice president at the other end. The speaker was a man of small stature and with a smaller voice than he was recognized, but before he had under way, several others joined in denunciation of Rabbi Isaac M. Wise as a traitor to his race. This pounding was repeated about intervals, so impatiently the members to express their nation.

For a Post-Dispatch reporter observed making notes, a meeting was switched to Yiddish explained by Lipman; traces enough had been down from Morris Spindler more publicity.

Objections to Wine Withdrew
Lipman said that Rabbi G. Y. ago said with few 710 galon by representative to Prohibit Sector Allen that he was of Sharris Spford Congress that Lipman said he to City and protested to Alleg leaving more wine to Grade name of Sharris Spford.

Upon his return from Ka he said, he called a meeting members of the congress "three gunmen appeared meeting and threatened if they desisted."

"What happened then?" was asked.

"Well, after we went to nothing," he said.

Another speaker declared unless Congress repealed the said Act as to Jewish wine soon be characteristic of the Congress.

Endorsed by Grob a West-Dispatch report on Rabbi Grodsky today.

"I have four congress explained, 'one on Dicks on the Fourteenth street Fourth-street and Carr on the one next door Sharris to which Mrs. Grodsky
